These are my views on society. This is written from a conservative understanding of what is being told to me in books. After I studied conservatism, religion became easy for me. This is because learning from conservatism taught me how to understand books as a conservative, so I write these books as such. One may say that I understand books from a Muslim perspective, I disagree though I acknowledge that could be the case. My studies of conservativism came before I studied religion, without conservatism, I couldn't understand religion. Conservatism made it possible for me to understand scripture as literal. My views reflected Islam in my life, that had made it possible to understand conservatism, all this material came easily for me to understand after years of studying. Over time, I learn material. In many subjects, I learn at a good rate.

I am aware that much of it will cause people to not like me at all since it is not material that they want to talk about such as sports, TV, gossip etc. Yes, a portion of people will give up on me when they read this because this is many subjects not just one or two. When discussing these subjects as you already know, the public will think you want attention that you are announcing being religion, claim you are a "crazy" with no basis, that you are being negative, you get told it is just a "phase", that what you say has no positive outcome from discussing it that you are wasting their time you will hear this the most. In fact, you can give this to someone who would hate to read this and see at what point they will stop reading it entirely. If you talk about this material, they will try to claim you are an extremist. After they slander you, they then drop their slander later as if they didn't slander you. Or what they will also try to do is say that because you don't live in their countries in the Middle East for instance, they say you cannot understand the situation that goes on with their leaders who do a horrible job running their countries. What they will do is ask question after question when there is a conflict they try to find. They walk away when you ask them questions as if they are going to some appointment. What they will most likely do is not pick up their phone and then have a voicemail response of "I will return your phone call." After they hear the voicemail you send them, they then block your number. If they do pick up your phone call, they will lie and say that your phone was "breaking up." They are taught to say at their centers to the authorities that you are "recruiting" them when they are the ones who try to recruit. Probably the most pathetic detail about them. The authorities then drop it every single time.

If you upload this, the police will contact you eventually, you will have to play a delusional person, if you don't, they will put you in jail calling you an "extremist" where you will go for a long time. Funny how they talk of "religious tolerance" in America. What you can do is you can get diagnosed with a mental illness afterwards. You can get creative and yell at authorities when they come. You can have your wife call it on you and they will take you to a psych ward for 3 to 5 days, these medications do nothing to you. From there you can choose not to follow through with the order from the local pharmacy when you get home like I do every time. Some of your friends will believe you are mentally ill; others will know you are not. From there you and your friends can say that you didn't make sense at the time and that's not you at all. People will believe this I am not making this up. You can also like many different pages on social media, this will confuse authorities who will spy on your social media. You can also have many different countries' flags on your social media page; it will confuse the public. By working less or not working, this allows for less social security for generations, this does damage to their countries. America doesn't have the time for you once they close the case they claim against you. An FBI agent threatened to call an ambulance and have me sent to a psych ward because he thought I was a "punk." The FBI agent called me a "punk" that's what he thought I was, the other FBI agents knew I quit, but one of them was so duped from there they dropped my case. It resolves this for both America and you because now America has deemed you making no sense at all. This is done so you go into hiding, if you want to be known, more power to you but so you know you cannot play dumb with people. The cops only have so much time with you and then they have to go to other people. They will only spend 10 minutes with you at most. The FBI has to go back to their agenda. You personally play no role with them at all, most likely they will want to clear your name. The way the FBI sees it is that you are taking time from them being religious. I obviously don't go public about this. As you know, the FBI can put you in jail for 20 years claiming you were making a bomb planting false evidence; I doubt they would do this to you. You can just lie if ever interrogated and make it seem like you are jealous of Ben Shapiro and Joe Rogan because of their wealth, and they will let you go thinking some "propaganda" convinced you talmudic people are rich and it is "unfair". The FBI will buy it. Remember, people will feel you have lost all credibility if you do this, people will think you are a liar no matter what you tell them that someday you will be a hindu or something. They also will believe you make no sense at all with no purpose. What would also be wise to do is get a clinician or a therapist to advocate for you to go to a psych ward since they want to cut down on the prison population, these professionals say that you cannot control your "mental illness". A clinician is very difficult to get, a therapist is very easy to get. Tell the workers, you are "not stable." What you can do is fake getting excited over small things, you can laugh a lot, you can make up a story that goes on for a long time, you can talk about many different deep subjects, keep saying "I am worried for this country", you can talk about a politician's policy that you are against for a long time etc. This will confuse them where they won't understand but will try to relate while listening as your "support" the entire time. This is how they accept you. This will get you out of a lot of trouble. What you can also do is keep checking into psych wards if your neighbors harass you. The psych ward will have to find you temporary housing. What you can do is tell the public that you are a Muslim as a "hobby." If you are sectioned, you can say to others "what they did to me was wrong." Tell the public that you are taking initiative in seeking help. Rarely does the government ever take away social security benefits from someone. If you get restraining orders, they cannot put you in jail for them no matter how many the public tries to get on you. What you can do is act as if you are dumb by responding with "you are confusing me." If the authorities don't listen, explain to a lawyer that you do not work for the saudi country.

Each generation there will be people who do the right thing around the world and quit what their country does. I was very fortunate to be raised in the 90's where during 2008 you were deemed a racist for being white and republican. This is what happens when you make people feel less America, what a shame. Had it not been for this and other reason, who knows if I would have left America for Islam. When I converted 4 years ago, I had not a clue Islam would get so much bigger. Even if I tell them I converted in 2018, the public will still think it was because of how much attention Islam is getting in 2023. I had to go looking for most of this material which took many internet searches in many websites, there were no video shorts on religion at least I didn't use TikTok at all I knew so little about it, in 2018 TikTok wasn't that big. it seems like everyone is talking about Islam now making Islam far more accessible. Most of what people have to say about what they think is Islam is positive, I am amazed by this. What I'm even more amazed by, people in North America and Europe picking up Islamic terms for instance when they say "this is haram" to things they don't agree with. People think that you are a Muslim for clout when we are on social media. Mostly, they think Islam is a fashion statement. So, tell people it is your style of fashion, they will believe you. No, I did not see this coming at all. When I was studying Islam, I thought no one would make mention of religion unless if they had presented with a cross as example. What is happening in religion ties in to proving my point only a small portion of people much of the world outside the countries I list will see what is coming. To anyone reading this around the world, if you feel after reading what I have typed that you can help towards fixing the Ummah in any way, we greatly appreciate your assistance. Reader, please try to understand that had they have stopped, we would have as well.

County jail is not bad at all, but state jail is very bad, someone who was at a psych ward with me told me this, he went to county jail twice. We can all do county jail, only a portion of us can do state jail. State jail may not have many fights. County jail is short so people feel they can get away with more. In jail always mind your business and you will be fine. Don't ever talk to the guards in prison, inmates will think you are a snitch. The inmates may try to get you to join a gang, it is a tossup. The classes in jails are the same as psych wards, of nothing such as anger management classes. Most jails offer to lower your sentence, some states offer far better agreements than others. The prisoners they are not sexually assaulting people in jail. If you mind your business, then they will leave you alone. Even if they don't think you are tough, they will leave you be. Someone who went to both state and county told me this along with what is on TV is more so penitentiary and down South.

Someone may be an Islamist, his children may grow up not to be so we cannot track it to prevent Islamism. Islamism means they want a world revolution for Islam with or without arms. We cannot have Islamism; we can't stop the spread. I want Islamism to be right, the problem is once the Islamists start attacking North America and Europe. Chaos will emerge, and more Mosques will be shot up. There will be no "new" Germany, you can't tell an Islamist that. You can't show the brother that the world will end within 200 years and there will be no "new" Germany. Yes, more people will be dying from this. Muslims, leave North America and Europe if you don't want the country you live in, take my advice. If you do live in either North America or Europe, you must defect. The people in North America and Europe will know that you don't the laws of North America and Europe nor the wars they fight.

If you have a bad day, go for a walk no matter how long, this is your best bet on getting through the day.

We will never know who got the blessing from God and who didn't in the world. We get a sense for the leaders though such as Bashar Al Assad.

When I write out history, I always write it as definite.

The way I overlook all this is to let North America and Europe do what it wants. I don't speak out or protest, it is not my concern. I don't reach to most people.

If someone in authority or anyone says you should be put in prison or a psych ward where they call you a criminal or crazy calling you name after name. They are claiming that they have the answers, that you are the problem, and that they have all the solutions. It’s a country where it is always the other persons fault.

The Arabs during Muhammad’s time knew the Torah by heart because the stories were handed down from generation to generation Remember white people embraced the Abrahamic faith later 300 years after Jeshu died. White people came on to religion later. The Arabs should be the ones to decide which faith should run the earth. They kept the faith, there were plenty of Jewish (Muslim) tribes in Arabia before Muhammad came and they knew the faith by heart. Allah never left; the Israelite tribes just got spread all throughout the Middle East.

Imagine if I said we will be tough on Israel.

Who the hell carries a Quran in their car let alone a backpack in reference to 9/11?

If I lived in Iran and they treated me as badly as they do here, I probably would be pro-American, that’s what happens to the earth. It kicks people into religion, and it kicks them out that’s why I believe everyone’s test was equal. If you think about it, there is no country where it is so amazing everyone wants to live there, it’s your job to make sense of your environment.

Do you really believe Lee Harvey Oswald could land a shot like that?

If Semitic languages exist there is a God because Shem would have existed unless if you think Shem was fictional

The Anunnaki were teaching the humans to go fight all these wars, it had to end. That’s why Allah says he will judge between the jinn who are good and evil.

It had to have taken a God to unify tribes into city states creating the first civilization known as Sumeria. We cannot do it without the help of Allah. Also, people had to be friendly and work together, people cannot unify that aren’t law abiding and share a common belief.

People say Jesus loved everyone. What would he do if you didn’t believe? All these Christians say these atheists can do whatever they want.

More proof of God it will always be wrong to walk out on your family. You don’t get to decide everything, if you did it wouldn’t hurt them.

They are called leftist because they have left the earth.

It is funny how 60 percent of church goers are women in America. Christian men are not going to take their chances being judged by God and be polygamist to try to help God by being a husband to a several women. What irony this stuff is.

The world hurts the ones who appreciate it the most

If you're a Muslim leader you are considered someone of great moral character if you're an Arab you're seen as a victim of white racism and you're some hero. If you're a white Muslim you are a crazy person, what an earth. I can't sacrifice more than that to a creator, nothing could possibly come close added to the fact I have to be classy as possible. That's why when the world is ending people will hurl all these insults my way and I will still know it is a fact.

The capital riots were terrible for America in part because people made an ass out of themselves and because democrats will talk about it nonstop for the rest of Americas existence, they will never forget and move on. Overall humanity is taking steps backwards.

If talmudists really felt you deserve a share in the Hereafter, they wouldn't be collecting 15 billion a year from America, they would work with you not against you.

If only America didn't slap everything together their centers that claim to be Islamic wouldn't be so poorly managed putting no thought into it. I'm not condemning here it's just obvious that Joe Biden says you figure this out meanwhile an FBI agent listens to all the sermons some of this is too embarrassing I don't know what to think. Don't listen to me, visit a center that claims to be Isalmic for a few weeks see for yourself.

Saudi Arabia's flag has a sword in it. When you see it, you know it means war and expansion spreading a Wahhabi ideology instead of a country. We are in 2022 and people go along with it.

I'm not sure if Jesus was a Muslim. The photos I saw growing up depicted him as being white. (humor)

Atheism is growing at a high rate in Saudi Arabia. Jacob Rothschild will be doing a tour around the Middle East to explain why he commits usury and steal the worlds gold.

The Islamic version of Paul Revere would say "the braindead are coming" when the Americans are invading

If you think about it, you are that amazing in Allah's eyes you get a harem and if people don't like it hundreds of years, they are the ones not making the sacrifices for the Lord. They can say human rights they can quote the bible but at the time it was accepted, and no one protested, according to you people were either sick, uneducated, or indoctrinated. The muslims have to struggle and accept this, it's the deal or else you are not grateful for life. This is another reason why I believe in Allah because harems were created solely to please him and if you don't like it we don't need you in Islam.

I know products are made in America or China, but the reality is that everything you see is Arabian. That's where life and the human thought stems from so for instance when you see an SUV you can think it's Arabian made.

They say it's the one and only Jewish state. Well, that's the one and only Palestinian state that doesn't exist

If Hitler did believe in a master Aryan race he would have gotten the belief from the talmudists who believed in chosen people

The Talmud contained economics of all ideas and concepts used as a system of lending which was genius for its time

With the Jewish faith it is about the Jewish people, with the Islamic faith it is about the Prophets

Religious leaders keep giving people help on how to live their lives. They cannot do that because you must live and learn. Also, they were not born in your generation

There is a village in Israel called Arab, but the zionists refer to it as Arraba al battuf. We know the Arabs use the word al before second names

If Christianity is right why is it written in Greek and not Aramaic, this would cause errors in translation

Prophet Sulaiman's temple had border walls.

A king is viewed the same way as a peasant in laws of the Lord

I wonder if the Quran was 20,000 pages that people would still not believe. Maybe Muhammad was on to something.

If atheism is right then there is no reason to feed the poor, natural selection

Fans back in the 1962 NBA all-star game dressed professionally and cheered politely. Compare this to a football game today. People want to get as drunk as possible and fight another team's fan making an ass out of themselves risking losing season tickets all to prove they are the best fans. Are people today animals and back 60 years ago they weren't? No. It is just more enjoyable to be like that. Mind you it is more work for everyone having to kick these fans out. The sports team owners are happy with it because they make more money raising the price of tickets and everyone seems to be happier. This shows that we prefer the worldly life of the earth. You get the sense people will leave religion in masses one day believing they can live better lives without it.

The problem with polytheism is that they claim adultery for instance angers their gods. My response to them is how do they know that?

People forget that it all began with one creator, one designer. That's why I know polytheism will come back because they are not asking this question, they know everything but it. Remember too that people will not like what is being told to them on the internet is opened and it will teach people history and polytheist history in a biased or underwhelming view.

The library of Alexandria had over 400,000 books, most if not all books are lost today that would contain mythology

Islam seems correct to me because the virgins in heaven are probably another species since Islam doesn't say if they are human or not and we know Adam was not the first creation in the Gardens of Eden.

The female slaves that were worth the most were the ones with the biggest breasts and the youngest age. This carried over to this day where the women who are the biggest flirt or have the best face structure get the richest husbands. If this stops happening generations from now, then I will think the Arabs didn't know life and that life is complicated and changes from generation. But if not, life really is that simple.

People believe cavemen grunted and used drums to communicate. How could they or why did they decide one day we are going to read and write? Even honest atheists will say the first humans could and write somehow so I find it odd they would lie in schools. It is a flat out lie that the first humans were not unified, they clearly had tribes. It is believable that Allah taught Adam how to read and write and then taught you have to eat food, wear clothes, and avoid doing harmful things to your body. Adam taught his children everything he knew, plenty of it got lost from generation to generation, but the core fundamentals were still there.

When I hear of a Muslim converting to Christianity, I would love to show them churches in Massachusetts and say here you go I hope this is what you had expected enjoy going to church weekly and that your life will be totally different like you say it is.

Where do people think our words and the ability to complete a sentence came from? What about our names why can't we just name ourselves after roman numerals?

You have to go along with anything the religion does, you are saying you want the faith to cover the earth. A lot of Christians are wrong when they say it’s people’s choice, it’s still your movement you have to accept what it does, you still have to accept whoever comes in. That’s why people take the safe route of picking Christianity and not Islam because they don’t want to hear about their faith on the news.

If you did yesterday, you can do today.

Why did all societies in the ancient Middle East believe in the heavens and hell? I thought the Israelites were the ones who came up with the belief. If they didn’t who was the first one to come up with the concepts? Prophet Adam, the first human, the answer is that simply they gave it right to you at birth, but you didn’t believe it some things in life really are that easy.

Let’s think if Lot was saved from Sodom and Gomorrah’s destruction how many people in America would be saved when the world ends? How many people have read their bibles and can locate Palestine on a map? I don’t say that to condemn or be a narcissist I say that because it is too unreal to think about.

To the people who say white people deserve white guilt what if you were white, would you deserve it? If you say yes than that’s radical of you

Young Sheldon may come off as perfect but what will he do when he grows up and gets a divorce someday? What will he do if his son resorts to a life of crime? He may respond saying that there is suffering on this earth, but keep in mind you’re no better than the religious people and he wanted to sound like the voice of reason. I’m not saying he thinks he has all the answers, but he said his system is better. The truth will always be there, heaven is surrounded by hardships.

There are no good guys, there are no bad guys, it’s just a back and forth of those who want their way and that use tactics that are immoral because they cannot make it to 80 without being a civil and caring human being versus us. More proof this is headed nowhere fast when there are more and more people like that who are “heroic”. People don’t understand we are delicate beings, not because people in today’s world are so sensitive but because we were never intended for activism/protests nonstop, the more people wish for things they cannot have it will get bad fast. I can’t begin to tell you how much garbage there is on TikTok where people are trying to influence you and get you to accept what they do as your own beliefs just look at Libs of TikTok on Twitter. Because people are so sensitive, they want to believe they are special and should not be questioned, this isn’t working. Here’s the perfect example you can’t have both Christians and gays, they are two completely different belief systems the Christians will end up lying about how they feel about gays. If they really wanted America to work, they should have no influence at all, the elites won't do that. It just bothers me so much that the people at the top push activism and we Americans have to figure out how to get along with each other, at some point we Americans can't be expected to accept everything that gets passed down to us. It may sound like I'm only bashing America but not at all Saudi Arabia would be a far scarier example of this where they get away with all this corruption and then they push their view of religion on people, what am I to think? Is it possible the people at the top don't know what they are doing?

Why do people think Allah would tell the youth to get married as young as 16? Look at how many women have daddy issues, there is reason behind it but when I explain it I'm viewed as some pervert trying to control women. I've repeated this millions of times, they have us Muslims in checkmate, the world will do what it wants, and we have to sit back and watch it.

I was at a patriot's game and a 12-year-old kid was crying after the patriots lost, I didn't know at the time he was showing zeal for his patriot cause.

You don't get hero cops/ politicians because you are not a hero. You get what you pay for. Here's an example where people don't learn, they have something called "treatment resistant depression", why would a psychiatrist keep working with someone and trying new medications? It's in the title treatment resistant (caps). If psychiatrists who make over 100k a year can't get that right, how are you going to get politicians who know what they are doing? We get more money, and we invent new ways to waste it but it is always finger pointing it is always the politicians fault. This ties into religion because people mortgage their lives to pursue a dream of being a politician and keep pushing out more ideology and then they end up miserable or hated. Certainly, it works for a few politicians, so people will keep trying it. Some rich people for example love it, Dan Bilzerian says it isn't that great, but people will keep being envious. As long as it works for one person you can blame others for not having it. The only way I could possibly be jealous of Dan Bilzerian is if he was in another dimension than the earth and he gets to go because he's rich, but being rich doesn't do him a thing so he's probably telling you the truth that means people aren't learning from others choices.

I noticed Candace Owens made a face when she posted a video in response to someone calling her a "nappy headed hoe", you can't call a girl that. I believe a creator does not appreciate someone calling a woman a name like that under any circumstance.

So, I'm experiencing schizophrenic delusions believing the Quran is correct but when the king of Saudi Arabia is being interviewed he is viewed in a high regard. Shake my head.

Most of these people who say they would die for their religion if someone held a gun to their head will gladly leave their faith if they are offered money and high status in society. What a sad earth.

The world can very well end as Islam described because every human has their breaking point and someday the world will cause everyone to reach it hence why people will resort to alcohol to try to escape and it won't work. Another problem is that everyone thinks their faith is their cause and not God's that the whole world is made for them alone. When the world is collapsing, they will either blame God and disavow him or blame their neighbor/leaders which I think we can all agree would cause the world to get very scary.

It takes an algorithm to get a song from your computer to your headphones to your brain for you to hear it. The message has to be sent somehow. That source we call is Allah, it is our explanation for what we fell, think, and respond. I believe it takes an all-powerful God to get that to you. If you think about it you are requesting it from God and he delivers it somehow that is beyond human comprehension. Life cannot operate on its own, it has a sender. Important

Imagine being a Christian priest and you support America meanwhile you're being watched 24/7 by the NSA and you think God supports America. You're saying you don't trust your own well-being. This is why I believe there is a Devil where people like that pick and choose what bothers them. One other damning sign that there is a Devil is that a portion of people don't want to live, no matter what you tell them, they will argue with you that life is not worth living. Some Devil is arguing with you when you talk to them, and you cannot win with them ever.

The people who say taxation is theft are beyond words. There must be programs in society to help anyone in need who may have experienced something horrific and are close to becoming an alcoholic. We live in the real world, if no one could be hurt or there was no crime then yes taxation would be theft. These are the same people who keep pounding their fists for freedom, you get what you pay for.

Christians who do this are the most pathetic "religious" group of the world where they expect you to be tolerant of everyone and tell you how to think. Behind the scenes they condemn you nonstop on their smartphones behind you back. To me, they are the most pompous as well but that is a close race between other faiths.

You will get these subtle hints that the world will end, it doesn't mean it will, but you can certainly make the case.

Women in Saudi Arabia spend all day to memorize the Quran and they still wear burqas for instance, it's already proven true that the message doesn't work for women there. Or think about how there are Christians that keep apologizing for every verse in the bible where there is no evidence the Israelites were enslaved in Egypt.

I noticed someone on the internet say that he cries thinking about what Jesus did for humanity. What I find odd though is there is barely anything written about him, how can he be special to you? 70% of each gospel is borrowed from another one. This is more proof these stories were never intended to cover the globe. This is why I believe Islam because Muhammad turned his merchant friends into Caliphs for sending the complete message, he assured them it would work, and it did.

No one will listen to what I have to insert. I have to spend 50 years researching something and then conclude mostly what they conclude or else I'm wrong that's why no one wants to hear me comment on the Middle East and say the conflict there really is that simple.

They may tax 2.5% in Islam for religious protection but you're paying a lot more than that in America with your sanity given how often the establishment mocks Christianity on TV

Allah picked Islam because Allah wants to see what sacrifices you're willing to make. Plenty of people will say Christianity because it is easy, and you get no criticism.

If Mongols are coming, you have to fight, someone has to protect the land, you can't just surrender hence why Allah claimed Baghdad as his land. If the Muslims lost, then the Christians have to win. This isn't me showing zeal for religion but that there would be no religion under the Mongols that's why these truths were shared.

Prophet Muhammad enacted laws where slaves were to be treated humanely, the Quraysh hated him for this since the tribes of Arabia's finances were dependent on this.

Prayers would take Muhammad 1 hour a day, he also did special prayers during the day that would last for hours, and he would pray until his feet went to failure. How or why would he have time to sleep with 11 wives in one night?

The Shias in their prayers pray for all Muhammad's companions except Ali to suffer, this is one main reason why I am not Shia.

Muhammad died before Khaybar most likely of old age wear and tear on his body.

Muhammad only attacked what people worshipped, the Middle East is loaded with sculptures.

Allah's pagan daughters were once goddesses, but this complicated things, so Muhammad said the verse to worship them was from Satan.

A word of advice if someone doesn't agree with something about you or something you do that is their problem not yours

I had seen a video of four girls in their early 20s dancing next to a guy who had an anti-abortion sign and saying they would all have an abortion. There is irony behind this, once they hit forty nobody will take interest in their "activism" being that they are no longer young. They were dancing in the video, let's see you years later let's get you on camera and smile with you. It wouldn't bother me so much if for instance one of these girls was a drug addict and did nothing to help her, she would no doubt freak out. Someone doesn't have the right to live but you always deserve the best society has to offer. I'm not saying men or women who support abortion don't deserve programs if they were drug addicts but if you do need support that will not come because you gave up on the next generation and I'm not trying to attack you. These ladies absolutely deserve no support as they don't care for the earth. What also bothers me is that these young ladies think about feeling good inside, their first concern is their happiness and then they claim they are activists too, you're a fraud, everything is about you if you didn't enjoy being an activist you would leave it. Heck it's a good thing they support abortion no child should have a mother like that.

Colleges need to shut down, not every degree but most you can study in class get A's and B's and then completely disavow everything you have learned once you get the degree which most if not all college students do. Psychology and Business Administration, the top 2 degrees being the prime examples.

"I only know what God lets me know", this means Muhammad didn't know everything to life. It could mean he did, but you wouldn't address something that way.

Given the fact that political and religious people keep rehearsing what they believe to themselves to memorize how to respond to someone to exert their beliefs, life must be a play of some sort. Actors do that.

What’s the point of education from schools if we can just assume evil of someone? Isn’t that what education is for to prevent that from ever happening.

The same reason I cannot tell someone Bill Clinton should have gone to jail I cannot tell someone al qaeda didn’t do 9/11. The same way I cannot tell you do this do this because the Quran says so all you will do is argue. But if you just listen you would see Christianity has been changed by its followers and is the same as Islam.

For some reason people believe we are in their reality, they think that important of themselves as if the world would collapse without them. A book, more especially an imam who explains life will not tell them what they want to hear. People are getting smarter on how to get dumber, take for instance the niqab they are professionals at being senseless.

When I was in college, I had a teacher who lived in Shrewsbury who said his community from India are trying to make a bigger presence there and are also trying to price people out of their hometown. Why is it that us Muslims get blamed for promoting Sharia Law but something like this wouldn’t bother them? All these people talk about is diversity and anti-fascism so they cannot claim letting Muslims practice Sharia Law is fascist since their own beliefs must allow it. This is proof to me that we all hate each other inside.

Your mind plays tricks on you thinking music videos and movies are better than they actually are that you want to be in the moment. When the world is ending people will rush to events happening that look like a thrill to them, but I think we all know this by now.

One side has to be lying either the talmudists or the Muslims when it regards who is responsible for these wars because both sides deny responsibility. Clearly one of them is trying to expand. Life is that simple where you can’t get away with a lie like that by blaming the other side. Saying it is politics is a lie because people are dying, this is not 3000 BCE where people were sent off to war for little reason, these countries’ leaders are held responsible by their citizens. 3000 BCE leaders didn’t value their citizens, you were meant for war now we have human rights where a leader has to explain why it is necessary for you to fight when they don’t.

The earth will always be the earth no matter how much your favorite celebrities try to prop it up. That’s why imams have theorized that the world is just a prison that all generations lived the same life, and the same amount of joy was found. Richard Dawkins can claim the world is better than it is, but it doesn’t change the fact that all this fame he’s getting has made his life no better, his life would be the same without it. I was talking to the lady who does admissions at a psych ward, and she said to me good job not having a drug or alcohol problem, it has become people's identity to be an alcoholic which means they are not enjoying it or else they would be announcing it to people. Or is this the "alcohol solution"? Going back to Richard Dawkins he obviously has faith of some sort to trust he can get all this hate mail and it won't cause him to be so down he doesn't want to do anything; you want to call me a crazy person for this than fine, but he had professionals tell him you can do this. I have to believe some higher power has to pull us back into the earth. Having been to psych wards I can tell you that we have to make sense of the world somehow, we can't just have 25% of the country homeless.

All these people calling the Quran false on the internet I have a question for them. Why were there scholars who made up at least 5% that had to study the Quran their whole lives? Were they lying to sell people a product? Were they informed about the earth? Suddenly now that the Quran is not believable and yes, I'm more than aware you have to take a leap of faith with some of what is written in it. Are they saying the Quran should be obvious? Someone will say they stay by the Quran today because they want money, well these high-class families already have money. Wouldn't eventually they say we are done? It's not like their wealth depends on it, many of them have stocks in oil for instance. What's really embarrassing is when a Christian says Islam is false for the miracles in it, so the miracles in the Bible are correct and believable but the miracles in the Quran are not?

To get an idea of how sad the earth is, Saudi Arabia, Qatar etc. will give you every truth they can to live in hopes that you will die for them in Syria by having a fake Islamic group. They are trying to lure innocent individuals to fight wars for them. But when I tell the truth, they think I'm working for them. It's not like the influence is 50/50 where Saudi Arabia, Qatar etc. owns half and Syria, Iran etc. owns half, we would want it to work that way since we true Muslims are never going to get our way. We true Muslims know we are correct because the faith says keep doing good deeds your whole life, not fight in a country overseas and kill Muslims who don't agree with 100% of your beliefs. We go on the internet, and we are told that we true Muslims had it wrong for 1400 years, nothing new here.

Kaiser Wilhelm II was the one who believed the Germanic race was the most important and was its strongest political organism. This is important because this mean Hitler got his ideas from previous generations, this is less evidence that he was a genocidal racist.

Just think about it all the Prophets had people come up to them and ask can I do such and such knowing they were most likely going to hear no. That's why Allah had to have the Prophets know right from wrong since many people were asking to be able to do activities to cope through the earth that would corrupt the earth, it seemed like a good idea to the people, but it wasn't.

It will be impossible to call out a Wahhabi leader because people will think I am just trying to put that person down as if I had a bad day or start drama.

It doesn't matter that more churches are closing instead of opening. We all know why we would spend all this money to make these centers if we can almost confirm it, is a lie. If there is a slight chance it is true, that's not worth spending all this money to have people go every Sunday. Bill Maher said it best, people don't want to wake up early on Sunday. Yes, it really is that simple.

In 570, there were traditions that were brought down from generation to generation, the Jews, Christians, and the polytheist knew why they had to do it they didn't question it as they thought Allah or their false gods needed it to run the earth. Now people overthink these simple practices such as fasting, it is happening at a large scale by design where people were hoping for more it's because of society it makes them think life is bigger than it is. That's why Allah asks if you think he made the earth without reason. Important

People might believe me being that I graduated from Worcester State and not an ivy league school where it would benefit me to lie about faith or to lie to others. They may believe I am telling the truth and not being Muslim for a narrative, it's all up to them. Important

The truth is that you cannot tell people the God of Israel is correct if they were polytheist in Macedonia. But because we have to defend Palestine, I will always believe it for a reason they may not see.

Just because terrorists most of the time claim Islam they could just be sick minded people, we don't know what got them to that point or if they were always like that, but we know that most terrorists are very smart. We have people in America who would do that, absolutely. Take for example FDR, he gave the green light to kill Germans during WWII after they surrendered.

Let's think the Middle East must be locked down what I mean is the women cannot be whores, the men cannot be effeminate, they must care about the poor/elderly, they must defend the countries through war, they are taught knowledge, they cannot all be drunkards in the streets etc. Anyone who is passionate against Islam, can't you confess it has reason for being there and that it’s doing the job it’s supposed to do? We all know it is not going to be obvious it is correct, but it leans in the favor. Add to this the Prophets would be Muslim; we know Abraham would he prayed a lot I’m sure he would be zealous for Islam that he would rally behind Islam.

Allah being as smart as he is knows you have no right to judge people who have been in and out of jail who are Muslim since I personally at college I wasn’t the most considerate person I certainly wasn’t the best teenager either. It makes sense why Allah would pick Islam; your environment may have played a role, but you get a second chance. The message will always be the same, it is how you end.

One of the criticism of Islam is that in the Heavens you get sex, alcohol, and gold. When you get up there you don’t have to have any of that, it’s not a requirement but it’s all us humans talk about to get away from out 9-5. Imagine if all we talked about was our 9 to 5 when we got home. I don’t want to finger point here, but I think it’s you, I think you’re miserable where whatever the Heavens claim to have you will just disavow it. If you weren’t miserable, you would accept it without complaint.

If you are a nihilist you have to accept that people on YouTube, make blogs, this is to get people’s ideas challenged and to educate on how others feel, it’s a community. You would have to claim this doesn’t serve a purpose, but it does it is to educate others to help them belong on the earth. Some smart donkey might say that it is just YouTube, yet YouTube has 2 billion users, it may be entertainment, but it is still educational if just to show people your ideals will be challenged in way of helping you grow.

One of the guys on the radio I listen to was critical of Afghan refugees joking that they have child brides. This is an incredibly stupid thing to say on his part and here’s why, he speaks on behalf of his god jesus christ. We don’t know Allah’s nature, for the radio host to denounce something he disagrees with, he is claiming that the Lord Allah either doesn’t know what he’s doing or that his god jesus is right by default. This is not us going back and forth over who knows how to run America better liberals or conservatives, we are talking about the Lord the one who controls our life and death. This isn’t petty talk no matter how badly this radio host wants it to be. Important

Had the Germans have won WWII they would manage everything it would be totalitarian. You could deny our Lord knowing the state would handle/fix anything with regards to any field you wouldn’t ever consider that the parents or the schools wouldn’t raise the kid right. It may not be a utopia, there may be a few people that may get short at times or may overspend but nothing beyond .4% of the population. But because we are left with America where there are those who want our suffering out there. Important

This is how I respond to someone who says that I take someone's opinion as fact. I take my own opinion as fact as do you, just because you weren't educated on scripture by a priest, or the internet doesn't mean you can't have them help explain scripture to you. You and I both agree there are many different opinions on scripture, saying that's someone's opinion overlooks that you may agree with Kamal Salibi on some of what he has to say. Someone I met at a psych ward told me that someone can write anything in a book, correct but you have to trust that people can study history and the environment around them that it is capable of doing. Can you trust that the Romans can document properly on the Jews?

Endless people insist that it is because of their religion, that's why people don't like them not because of their character. This makes people blameless with no shame. Because religion tells people you're misunderstood and we understand your example being he loved you first, bad will no doubt emerge from it since the environment which has all bad failed cannot pick up for them adding more trouble the public to handle. While this is happening people will want more and more out of life, the earth can only take so much. Religion will be used as a means to put people you don't like down; anyone would see this coming, but they don't see the whole picture. The rich cannot enter the kingdom of god, that means the rich must go in society that they are to blame for everything wrong. There always must be someone to point a finger at. You will not enter Paradise until you have faith, and you will not have faith until you love each other. Spread peace between yourselves, this is authentic from Sahih Muslim. That sounds like the opposite of what people do today. Important

I can show Islam is correct because if someone claims Islam and does an act of terror they will go to Hell. The problem is I would have to see the afterlife to see that happening but because the environment we live in enables people to be big there will always be people who will find ways to do what they want by any means. This stuff didn't ever happen 200 years ago. When they die and they see Allah they will say Judaism is right meaning that they did it for a good cause, seconds later they will be screaming in Hell. I know the Quran says go ahead and mock Islam on different occasions, but it can be implied they want people to take it to a whole new level because someone didn't get what they want on this earth they did something so sick. That's why there is different layers of Hell, mocking Muhammad should not get someone the same layer as someone who commits an act of terror, I don't know for a fact but it seems to lean in that favor. This is why Judaism is so bad because they believe they are perfect and the world is made for them, they would be the most likely people to do something like that and they've shown it when they have terrorized Palestinians. One final point is I saw two photos of the internet one of a Ukrainian militia where they were doing Nazi solutes holding up their weapons, the other was the free Syrian army members holding up a daesh flag. You have my word Allah writes down what we do, it was not wise of them to do that knowing they got a thrill out of it. My point here is that I don't do something stupid no matter what the extent is. Important

Maybe it was the best thing to ever happen to me being terrible at sports. I had a clinician who could never be told no that she wasn't wanted when I told her I didn't want to meet with her anymore she kept popping by. I'm willing to bet she was honors, top student etc. I'm not saying she never admits when she is wrong but that she has to have everything her way everything has to be the best for the best.

You must check off on faith, if not you then the masses must. Each religion will give you their own narrative on faith, but they all must be propped up and believable. Everyone agrees only one is telling you the truth, but one cannot dominate the rest or else everyone will go to it. Thanks to all the records, all the historians, cameras everywhere, the fact polytheism could be right we can confirm faith. Atheism should be obvious, I don't know why 85% of the earth would be religious, atheists' response is that religious people are just delusional. I also note how people will not let go of their faith for a different one, I blame them not that one religion is more convincing than the other for instance in Christianity there are not many laws but in Islam there are, personally I can't answer if and why Allah updated the faith. I will always pick Islam because we all believe the earth has laws, we know how animals must act; polytheism says maybe to that. Another point is that Muhammad was sent for all mankind, it just so happened the Arabs got the message, Allah still had a plan for your daughter had you have put her in the faith she has her Muslim sisters she's part of a culture she's an Israelite. What you also didn't see is that someone who is 21 must be ready to pick up a gun and go off to war, when he was 16, he wouldn't harm anyone's feelings intentionally, now he has to be a whole new person something has to click for him. Important

The one thing Christians always had going for their faith was that they claimed the world was losing hope and without their god jesus being crucified the world would collapse. I believed that 100% until I put thought into it, the world wasn't losing hope it was running just fine and dandy if you read the empires cultures surrounding Palestine. If anything, a Messiah who sacrificed himself so the world doesn't lose hope would be far more needed today than back then. Why is it us Muslims are hard pressed to explain every verse of the Quran and every hadith, yet Christians can keep making claim after claim despite the fact their whole story falls apart fast.

Think about pills, there are no pills that give someone motivation, or end anger, but there are plenty to make someone happy throughout the day. I believe this is by design where life cannot be that easy.

People are not going to say quit your morals because I watched someone on the internet trash religion. I get that they hold on tight but on this earth, you have to be tolerant to the point you almost become the other person. It is clear people don't think the way someone on the internet and the way I think because I view everything as ideology so pick a new one. People love what they do because they think it supports them and understands them, I think I might be on to something. Important

Your experiences, your environment, your generation determines you not a holy book that's why the first Muslims were called the best of nations. Today's generation could be the worst of nations, but we don't view differently as the worst, we don't view in the eyes of Allah though some do when they bring up how our great grandparents fought in D-Day. It will show religion had its course. Allah must accept you that's why Richard Dawkins was a genius to say there are many great mythological stories found all throughout history, that Allah's stories are not viewed as special and victorious, but they were in the future no one will care about it. Important

If you read about activism in the past 40 years like banning videogames, yes, these people got attention for it but then years later no one cared so they got their 5 minutes of fame. It got them all pumped up and now we see it wasn't needed. This is why I know Black Lives Matter will die someday, I know many people will be offended by it but all activism will seem senseless someone pointed out how the soviets were 40 years ago, it's over. If you notice people's twitters, they have to keep impressing you, but they keep repeating the same things. This is why in the future I believe a generation will abuse activism and will make it their lives, we all see that coming whether you believe in religion or not. Another thing is that no one is trying to tell you to quit what you believe when they tell you to do something else when activism is all people think about. Important

It is ironic how so many Germans after WWII could have been recruited to support Israel, they didn't have to be genocide. They would have just gone along with it but the American textbooks say they are sick people who hate the race of the jews. If the Germans were as sick as described, they would be excited to kill Palestinians. A lot of the Germans were Catholic they could have easily been recruited that your dream of running the earth is crushed now do our dream of conquering the Middle East.

I saw someone on a TV show about struggling teens and his name was David, he was angry, very educated, and got into many fights, he couldn't function in society. To talk about James (me), a Christian priest Matthew, a buddhist monk Phillip, all we do is argue, try to bring each other down and laugh at what each person believes nitpicking it. How could we question Allah if he told each of us that we get nothing in the Hereafter and our deeds go to waste and David gets all the treasure in Heaven since we are no better than him since we can't get along in society. We have to preserve the earth; we are not here to look at each other's faults in fact a hadith says Allah will not be merciful to those who are not merciful to others. We are just telling David that he can have animosity however not be aggressive. I'm not saying we have to be friends, but we have to make it work somehow.

If someone says faith could be correct but there is a small chance, it doesn't change the fact that someone is either all right or all wrong since religion gives absolute truths. That means religion can be proven or disproven, there's not some chance of it being right, one of us is clearly right. We do know if religion is all right or all wrong, saying we don't know is false on your part the truth/nature knows. For example, if I document an event I saw in person, you cannot say that event could have happened, that would make me a liar/delusion to say it happened.

Poland is letting refugees in from Ukraine, but they tear gassed Muslim refugees who were trying to get to Germany crossing through Poland, this is a great example of hypocrisy. Do you see why the world has to end where Poland claims to be Christian, is that Christ like? Someone might say if the Muslims were Christian then they would not have been attacked by the Polish, no they still would because they are brown you and I know that. It shows people want everything their way. This is freedom, if you took away the Poles right to do something like this, they would call you a fascist. But then they claim religion, which is it? Is it freedom or religion? You can't have both and you cannot say religion is freedom then everything you do is excused/justified you have no remorse.

When I was at the last psych ward, three professionals and I were talking about me being coherent and making sense of what I say. Think about it, this is four grown men talking about how I can adjust in society, so someone doesn't get mad and hit me. Forgot the 2,000 a night it costs there, that's 3 people whose field is a waste along with my time this is what the schools are for to help people grow and mature and the colleges are to get you to think and be intellectuals. Why would such a place like this have to exist? This is why I believe God exists that we have to go along with this.

The majority of people look at everyone who isn't their friend like they are utterly worthless and when something goes wrong it is the other person's fault, don't even give me money to charity just let me die in the streets. The point of charity is to get people to care to inspire hope, it is clear you don't want me alive everyday you question my mental health how is it possible with all 2022 has to offer the world becomes a worse place?

The American flag, and Islamic flag is viewed as a flag of hate, it's over it's just a matter of time. You want to cancel everything here you go you can cancel the biggest concept possible to cancel a whole country. The youth did not know it was about acceptance and unity, but it didn't matter to them.

To all the people who say Jesus would never say to beat your wife, I request a Gospel with 15,000 pages. Then I will know for sure that it wasn't some accident that it wasn't included in a false gospel that repeats 70% of each gospel. The fact of the matter is you don't want to believe Jesus would say that you don't want to acknowledge the Talmud speaks of it and it was a historic practice. Important

Back in 1940 you didn't know where I was, what I was doing now thanks to smart phones we can track where people are in 2022. There are cameras everywhere you go and there is not some island I can go to that people don't know about. It becomes believable that there is a Heaven we are going to since in Heaven there is no place you can go where people don't know about you, they will know where you are always.

If you joke around all day, it will get old, take my word. This must be why most humanity grows up by 30. I would have never believed someone if they told me partying wares off. It may not confirm a creator, but it confirms nature no doubt.

If you can't be a hypocrite/ don't corrupt the earth in Islam, then it was written for you to grow up. On the TV show It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia they parody a religious person making him out to be a hypocrite who wants to use the bible as a means to condemn what he doesn't like, it's actually the opposite, we people are so tired of life we are trying to invite people to a boring life. Tv gets away with anything I could on about it for hours about how none of it is reality nobodies life comes close to what you see on Friends for instance.

People hate each other today and it has nothing to do with race. I checked on twitter and a brown Muslim politician said it was racism when someone said it was hard watching someone of his race die. An ex-muslim responded this has nothing to do with race basically calling him dumb and desperate for attention. Back when I was in high school in 2012 if you were white conservative, you were a racist going against Obama. It’s only been 10 years and the world has widely changed that this is not the top priority. If you told me back when I was in high school, I would never believe you even today I don’t believe it. In the next 10 years it will be some new target I guarantee. This means America will keep recruiting new groups around the world and losing others it is unreal to think.

What people don’t understand is that if you believe in God and you don’t believe in Prophets you are your God’s prophet because you are smart enough to make rulings on matters. You’re bound to make mistakes in telling people what they can and cannot do like approving of smoking pot.

The problem with saying life is a simulation is that there are cameras everywhere. Why would everything be recorded? This was a hot theory 50 years ago and now it’s not.

I had seen on Facebook there was a father and his three daughters in Saudi Arabia who if I recall needed money to feed themselves. Some people posted in the comments that the daughters would have to be sold as brides. Here’s what I take issue with, these girls could grow up and be there would you need them most at the least maybe they have something to offer you like insight on life. Also, because you do that, no one has any reason to support your political cause or help pay for government benefits since you want it where we all hate each other. I’m not calling these people hypocrites or scum, but they are promoting an environment where we view each other as not welcome on the earth like it is ours and no one else. I just take much offense to this being raised in the 90s where no one could write nasty comments about me on the internet. By you typing that about the Saudi girls you are giving up on humanity, that makes life harder on everyone it isn’t something you just laugh off.

America is just like the Israelites where they cross out verses, they don’t like for what is convenient to them, this is a form of leaving the faith having pastors have mega mansions for instance.

Most polytheist groups did not know where women came from if they came from another one of their gods. Women were considered a plague on society; this has nothing to do with the fact they are much more emotional or because they aren’t as intelligent as men. This is solely because it is a very serious matter if a woman sleeps around, every society would have the women killed immediately. Islam fixed this by allowing men to have multiple wives and have harems giving the men full dominion over them. Islam taught that women are not a curse on society.

People want to find issue with Allah yet look at how many women pose with husbands talking about bible verses on their twitters. Without God she will get an American man where there is no photo portraits. I'm not saying every American man would be like that, but a lot would I know from personal experience. Muslim women like to wear the hijab they view it as an identity, this is their clique.

The reason why Muslims will never trust the opposition is because they go in hiding, they distort facts, they dehumanize any enemy of theirs, and their own citizens want to protest daily in their countries. These no names that nobody likes and uses each other are telling us Muslims how to think, feel act, why does it not work for them? How can the opposition say give up your Islamic faith?!

Bourgeoisie was a Bolshevik code word for Gentile.

Mosque Rescue (Bar Rescue) with James Cockroft.

To me it seems obvious God is real because someone who is poor and at the bottom may say their actions are not important since they are not needed in society like a Pope or Donald Trump saying it's their choice and responsibility to be the leaders of America, religion etc. That's not how it works, you still have to be a decent individual, you cannot be a hypocrite remember Allah is with you wherever you are, not just for those in authority. Without doing research I know people like that exist in America. Important

America called the Bombing of Hamburg Operation Gomorrah; can't you trust anyone that knows more about life than you? Why would they call it that for what you call a fictional event?

It amazes me how the media portrays Islam but if you read the Quran, it is all about signing treaties and when to make friends with people, to stay away from the treacherous then it has charity, pilgrimage, tells you to be monogamous.

If Aisha was 9 at the time of the consummation, when was she accused of adultery, 12? This is why I think she was at least 16 when she married him.

Do the disbelievers have knowledge there is no afterlife?

No authentic source of the Arabian Jews exist to this day. They had given up Hebrew culture and language for Arabism instead. No trace of Jews in the Christian era except for a few Jewish names. They were spread on verbal traditions. The Jews of Arabia claimed they settled in Arabia during the last stages of the life of Prophet Moses claiming they lived in Medina since 1200 BC. The Arab Jews claimed they were in Arabia in Wadi al Qura, Taima, and Yathrib after Nebuchadnezzar II displaced the Jews throughout the world. We can trace that now and that is a fact.

God had a mother and a mother-in-law too in Arabia, this is what happens with Christianity it keeps expanding its beliefs and then subtracting it later on in history.

A Roman woman had no right, she was seen as a person incapable of doing anything. In Judaic law a woman could never get a divorce.

No Prophet celebrated his birthday, the birthday of Prophets is not a holiday. This is a pagan roman festival. Even the Prophets knew they were not to be overly praised.

I remember reading about GoMad which is a weight gain program of drinking a gallon of milk a day and eating food throughout the day and workout 4 days a week and you will gain a pound a day. I remember how excited I was and how cool I thought it was that I felt a part of something where I wanted to do better for myself. This was when I was 20. Now fast forward to 28 I could read an article like that and not pay attention at all, the older you get you lose every value you have.

It is possible everyone will think the same someday since no one wants to offend someone else.

Gaddafi, Hussein, Noriega, Milosevic all have in common that they were viewed as Hitler or inspired by Hitler. Now Khamenei and recently Putin is described as such. Would you know the Ukrainian soldiers are wearing neo-Nazi emblems on their uniforms?

Why is George Washington viewed as a hero and Prophet Muhammad is viewed as a warlord? Both were military generals; both expanded their tent like the bible says. My theory is if you are religious, and you fight wars in the name of religion the world wants to condemn you. People do not want religious justification; they will defend George Washington to the grave no matter what he had done because they like America they don’t like Islam. People would condemn an action done by Prophet Muhammad but not condemn that same action by George Washington since they want to make the ultimate case against Islam it’s not bias it is just hatred of religion holding the faith to standards, they themselves would not set. Important cave hoping for divine guidance for six the social unrest, injustice, widespread discrimination, fighting and abuse from tribes. But no matter what they have an explanation for what sounds like a good story. Looking into this further, Umar wanted to marry Muhammad's granddaughter, Umar said "no man will treat her better on this earth than I will", this is important to me because Muhammad got one of his close friends to trust in what he did to accept responsibility. Abu Bakr on his first address as caliph said, "If I do well, help me, if I do wrong, set me right."

If this was Muhammad’s imagination, why are most of the hadith practices a copy of practices found in the Talmud? Muhammad would pray in the Hira

Saudi Arabia supports Ukraine now. The sauds refused to let Syrian refugees in their country so they pick and choose what they view as humanitarian aid. I don't think Saudi Arabia can invent a new way to make their image crash further, but it is Saudi Arabia they will push the limits.

To those who say God speaks in Greek since the false gospel is written in such, I expect Allah to address us in Arabic, that is Allah's language. Why would Allah speak in Greek when Hebrew is most similar to Arabic? Greek is opposite of Hebrew. The Christian god will address people in Greek most if not all will agree, despite the fact their own god did not speak in Greek. Someone would say that their Christian god will address people in the languages they speak on the Day of Judgement, but then I have to ask why did their Christian god pick Greek for his false gospel? Allah's language is not universal which is what Greek was known as. Someone will say Arabic is universal, but at the time it wasn't. Think of it this way, do you think Allah will speak to you in Greek or Arabic if you had to pick one? To clarify I'm not saying it is impossible that Allah speaks Greek, but I would bet a lot of money that Allah speaks Arabic as would most. Important

I know this is a weak case to make for God's existence but how come animals know to help you if your life is in danger if for instance you feel? The animal knows please stay alive just like with the Zamzam Well, water magically emerged, this cat knows instead of a well the cat must step in and help. Pets love and care, Muhammad loved and cared about pets there could be a good reason for this. The cat knows Allah is Most Merciful, the cat knows you get to live though you did a sin.

Since Jews and Christians believe Prophets have faults than why do they claim Muhammad had faults? If anything, they should claim Muhammad had no faults and that he cannot be a Prophet without having faults.

I know for a fact that if the polytheists ran the earth, they would write out why certain people in society have to be executed where their crime is too deep such as murder. Because the monotheists will just quote the Bible or the Quran, nobody is going to listen. Society is going to keep evolving and it will end bad I think we all agree something can go wrong especially with the internet where now you have access to everything people do and have done throughout history. This all hit us too fast. It doesn't help that the schools let you have any opinion on history you want, but for instance if religious people walk others through it then it is viewed as indoctrination. What's going on here is so much bigger than what I had thought of America being destroyed by hyperinflation which will almost never happen, the structure is not right maybe some genius can explain this because I can't because there are so many factors all of which are failing. Important

It turns out that the Islamic sources of religious history are correct such as the Desert of Paran being in the Hejaz in Arabia, but people shut off when they hear history from Islamic sources. It's not that people have a bias or that they are racist towards brown people it's just anything involving Islam they don't want to hear. I could write endless material on how this all ties together their environment has taught them there is no way there is any truth in Islam. At best, people will overlook all of it and the rest will just argue.

The Israelites knew what they were doing, recording lineages of their Prophets very which they did a very good job of. Because of this, we people care about our ancestry and our origins such as tracing where in Europe our great grandparents lived. This shows you and your family matters because you reproduce you have reason to continue lineage by reproducing. It was a very smart thing to do which years later paid off.

Maybe we are the children of Israel if all these people in their 20s and 30s want to watch 90's cartoons all day or collect Pokémon cards which is a way of reliving their childhood. You listen to the music that is put out and most of the rap and hip-hop sound like nursery rhymes I kid you not. It is because the lyrics have become so desperate to put music out.

I think the main reason why Jews and Christians do not convert to Islam is because they view themselves higher than a Prophet. I have reason to believe this, they will never accept that Allah had someone who won over every human being at life that's not the God they believe in. To clarify, Jesus was God to these people, not man so saying they believe in a human being higher than them doesn't count. All they ever hear is how amazing they are, the last thing they want to hear is a person named Muhammad is higher than them, I got bad news for these people. It's easy for these people who can criticize a President all day who is at a higher authority then them, but it matters not to them. This will devastate people when Allah tells them this. Important

You will learn America that you cannot cancel one third of your citizens under the claim of being mentally ill, just like the Roman Empire you will collapse. But all the psychologists, scientists, half of politicians will tell me that there are no laws to life, one of us is right, only time will tell. Important

I think the Bible and the Quran needs miracles in it such as Muhammad flying to Heaven on a Winged Horse, if there were false holy books then these books would get more of a following since the false holy books would be more “imaginative”. I don’t want someone to take my opinion here as anything special since I am not a genius nor a Prophet so I cannot tell you why there are miracles. Personally, I think miracles are to show that the Israelites won when they needed Allah the most that it worked and then that was the miracle that had happened.

It is unfortunate that pascals wager exists, you turn to religion because you believe in what you do. Not because of a hypothetical question. What must be accepted is that there is no pascal’s wager in religion because you still must live a law-abiding life, you must sacrifice something such as no more getting speeding tickets. Pascal’s wager implies that you use no effort at all.

Richard Dawkins and todays Christianity are on the same team. In an Islamic country, Richard is not allowed to live there but a Christian country will shelter him. I could understand if the Catholic priests used him to show freedom of speech and debate but that’s not what is going on, Richard humiliates them every time they talk to each other. Your religious leaders do not care so keep sending Richard hate mail for him to laugh at. You deserve for your religion to be mocked and no you do not have the right to flare Muslims overseas to feel big they care more about their faith then you do since nothing can be lower than no care at all. Important

It is something important all religions in today’s earth aspire for their followers to be perfect in their next life. That would mean they all have Allah’s name behind it regardless of how much hatred their followers have towards Islam. If for instance Hindus loved Muslims on the earth but didn’t believe they would be perfect in their next life, it would have far less in common with Islam. All religions want you to at least try to be near perfect on this earth under the claim of bettering yourself. They all preach the same message. Also, I don’t know if polytheists believe they will be perfect in their next life, nor does it matter considering only like .7% of the world’s population is polytheist. Important

I need to see the proof that God doesn’t exist.

If the Catholic Church did suppress science and books that were not in favor of religion (which I don’t think they did, if they did to just a bit of an extent) and people revolted and published the books they wanted, it wouldn’t have mattered. People still would have gone to Church because they believe in the values found in the Bible which will always be relevant, just look at today with all these Christians trying to seem of a high moral status. People would have left, but maybe 10% at most. If 90% did leave, a future generation would pick up Christianity again because what Muhammad said was true, we are judged based on our generation, people come and go in masses throughout each generation, think of the Soviets leaving Christianity or part of China embracing Christianity. It sounded at first like I'm trying to protect religion from criticism if you got that vibe I wasn't aiming to. Important

I had spoken to a staff at the program I am at, I talked about how at the other program there was a staff that would come in Thursdays from 8:00-4:00 PM he would do nothing but stay on his phone all day and give you one sentence answers during his time there. At this program if you don't talk to them daily, they assume something serious has happened to you. I pointed this out to show the extremes that one program to another to a staff here is so different. She apologized that the worker at the other program would not talk to me during his shift. Please understand I can't process this and how dangerous this is that people think every little thing is a catastrophic injustice done to them personally. What do you think will happen to Massachusetts? I hope this is the only state where this happens. For those who don't know, if you think people are out to get you and they hate you, you don't live. I also think people are too complicated and difficult to understand, I need to spend years researching and typing about things that I haven't learned yet. The standards are going to get too high, and I warned!

To all these people who leave Islam, have you conquered Arabia? Have you produced a book memorized by billions? What are your credentials?

It amazes me how religious people (not criticizing gays or atheists here) take so much offense to Islam when gays are executed, yet no religion explicitly states that you cannot execute a homosexual. I'm not trying to be wise about it, I'm trying to show a point that you cannot be whatever version of ex communicated the religion has. All religions do NOT have the right to do that, yes, they can put you in jail, but they can never say that what you did goes against their religion. If they did say what you did was whatever version of a sin was by executing a gay person, they must show you that exact verse since they cannot say homosexuality is natural to nature. Important

No one can understand how for instance daesh destroys tablets that would confirm the origins of life and Islam. In America, people travel to Palestine to look for false evidence of the biblical stories and their content gets all these views and all this support worldwide. I have to tell the truth here that yes people in daesh are incredibly stupid and every Muslim speaks out against it and daesh won’t listen, it still makes you wonder how the earth does anything it wants anywhere.

If the citizens of America really want to get rid of aggression, they need to get rid of most videogames, hardcore pornography, social media posts advocating for aggression, all action/horror movies, music that incites for aggression meaning a lot of rap, anything that comes close to a threat being banned from posting on the internet. It would be too much and I’m not calling out Americans and I know they understand but we all know they change the subject when this is brought up. This is unrealistic too because what are they going to do to delete most media produced? Read the previous paragraphs to show everything America suggests to do is just dumb where it sounded good on paper but had never been done before.

It's a matter of time but I know Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, and Kuwait are going to accept homosexuality and gay pride flags, they think so high of themselves they will do it. If supporting Palestine is too good for them, how long will it take before they think that high of themselves? All the religious groups will support their choice.

Santa could be real, in Matthew 19:26 with God all things are possible. Though I don’t think the verse implies every theory ever produced must be taken seriously. That would be taking literalism as far as possible. I can’t help but laugh.

One thing they must teach in schools is that people of any country or ideology will go along with their leaders because it works for them. If Hitler was gassing the talmudists, people will always go along with it because they feel safe under him, they are not indoctrinated. There is good in every country, there is good in every people, that’s why all these WWII movies are lies.

If there aren’t laws to life, how come all these marriages with trophy wives fail?

In my eyes if you support America and you know what America does, you are equally the problem as Jacob Rothschild someone you speak out against. You both support America equally, there aren’t levels of support there is pass or fail that you allow for a guy to do stuff like this because you hate your enemies in the Middle East that much. You are in no way moral, that’s why the Quran calls you cattle because you just go along with it, you haven’t earned a higher title than that nor will you ever. These are the same people who say you are unpatriotic if you don't support America, but they expect Syrians to take up arms on their own people. Important

What really bothers me is that America believes in a god, it cannot be the God of the Bible. Unless if you believe that the bible speaks of pro homosexuality (plus marriage mind you) 51% over the 49% of anti-homosexuality. For some reason, that below 49% percent cannot be run in one state despite America being very pro state rights. They seem to be divided over euthanasia just putting that fact out there.

If you think you are better than me, you cannot have sexual urges, a past, you must be a millionaire, you must have mastered every book in existence, every single human being must be envious of you in some way, you must never be wrong nor have a moment of sadness, and you must have full control of your anger. If you check off on all this, you are better than me and you are also equal to a religious figure because this sounds like Jesus' description. This is all or nothing or else I can criticize or insult you. If you think that high of yourself, you're insecure, end of discussion. Important

You can't put a price on being right.

Look at the caliphs how many kids they all have, at least 3 each, Ali had 15. All kids of theirs are Muslim. Wouldn't Allah put his name to Islam? Do you see why polygamy is there? Allah is a God of victory, that is a form of victory, to keep having more kids and multiplying just like the bible be fruitful and multiply. I talked to a lady at a Mosque, and she is from Syria, and she said that you are to have children despite the economic conditions or if the country is in war, I believe a Creator wants it that way in Syria not the Syrian people.

I will never trust evolution because it is taught in US public schools. This is because whenever I talk to someone and we get into an argument, most always blame me. If the US is responsible for that person which they are, how am I to trust that you are not lying or rather are completely wrong about evolution since I have to trust your top academics that they can document events correctly. If I am in the wrong, when I start believing evolution will I be able to know when I am wrong like these people who argue forever over their mistakes? Richard Dawkins could not see this coming. He clearly trusts the US government teaching evolution because he doesn't want to be viewed as a conspiracy theorist after all they work together. Unless these citizens are homeschooled, then it is coming from the government don't US citizens represent the government? I guess Richard could say US citizens don't listen to anything, but then he would be saying US citizens are stupid. The people who believe what you put out. Are you trying to lie to them for fame? What is your motive, Richard? He has his cake and eats it too. Things are not going to magically get better in the future if you want to pull that card that evolution can now be trusted given the results it has on its citizens since they have to teach that over religion which preaches always to tell the truth. Richard keeps making these faces at religious people like there is no hope, here you go Richard explain what is going on here for me. If you are so passionate to teach evolution there better be results. Important

Steve Harvey said that there is no one way to heaven and used the example that there are over 800 TV channels and not everyone watches one channel, but they are all entertaining and we all like many different channels. There is a problem with your attempt at wisdom Steve, TV channels are horrible, 71% watch TV not 96%. What about us 29% that get nothing out of TV? What about all the channels that get canceled yearly, are those not actual ways to heaven after you had said any channel is a way to heaven? The channels that get canceled has a fanbase, I guess their way to heaven isn't important. I'm sorry this is a troll comment, but I had to.

When someone says you are not making sense, just say to that person you only hear what you want because it is a fact. It isn't automatically my fault that we cannot have dialogue.

Sports we have today is a good agreement between mankind and God. We cannot have a Roman Coliseum, but we can have big soccer arenas of teams with most countries in the earth competing. You can have gangster rap that talks about drugs, shooting people, but you cannot do that. We are being entrusted that at the soccer stadiums we don't go too far and pour beer on the other teams' fans when our team loses, it would get shut down. We speak, God listens.

If Muslims are such different people from the rest of the earth. If muslims are detailed in their beliefs and practices, have stayed the same since they conquered Arabia, Arabic is very difficult to understand meaning the language is special the way I see it, and it is mandated for the youth, they insist there is one God, at the very least it is worth investigating if their religion is correct or not. Even if you have no plans of converting to Islam, they will teach you the religion and that is a good thing they got it right to do that.

I believe the Taliban has the right to ban girls from education since the Quran never explicitly states that a women must be educated, however if Aisha was ambitious and loved knowledge/education then it is only correct for girls in Afghanistan to go to school. I'm aware that Aisha is a Mother of Believer which would elevate her to a higher status, but if she loved it, then she would wish it for girls everywhere which is part of the Muslim faith found in hadiths. In fact, she herself was a teacher after Muhammad's death. I personally don't think it will hold up when a Taliban official is being judged when he says that it was part of the Islamic faith to do that after they had lied about how they would girls back in school which in the Quran says to honor your word which I think every Muslim can agree was unacceptable on their part. It only gets worse for girls seeing women in smiling having the education around the world they had dreamed of, in their minds where they know Islam probably is correct, these girls already believe they are "stupid women" for life. What makes this so horrible is that the girls are destroyed that their dreams of being a doctor for instance would be destroyed. Just to update this, the Taliban have banned university study for women until further notice until the two genders can be separated so no controversy there. I had to write out why banning women from education is not a good idea. The Taliban has done three great things, they have banned TikTok, they've banned forced marriages, and they have banned people from producing poppy fields in masses.

The women want religion on this earth, they want their dream man to marry, and kid's women report to be more devout than men on average. The men need religion on this earth given all the gangsters, chasing money, they want to do drugs all day, they don't excel at school anymore, or are never settling down. It's never going to be perfect, and one gender may find it harder to be religious in a country than another. I credit Allah for trying to market religion to people I've seen a lot of it, you think about it you're in a brotherhood the men show up. To clarify this is not every man but it is most.

Don't you find it odd how everyone feels tough on this earth? Think of how many people get DUI'S? Say for instance someone was a small built 23-year-old woman from a nice area who lives with her parents, what would tell her do something like this when in the jail waiting room there could be a woman who assaults her so bad, she becomes permanently scarred for life? You are a chosen people. Important

Since Angels know everything about life, they know every football team, every statistic, what players needed to be signed to win the Super Bowl, who cheated etc., you could have a conversation with an Angel about it. I highly doubt an angel has a preference of a team, but there is a fair chance they take interest in the sport after I have claimed sports are godly. The Angels may be more interesting than you, you never know but you never gave them a chance. None will enter Paradise with a weight of arrogance; the Angels already know everything.

If you were indoctrinated in religion, how were you able to leave religion? Were you one of the few? Many people on this earth think they are special so you would be one of them. Someone said he left Catholicism it was because of indoctrination. Two things, how does he know that Buddhism is not indoctrinating him? Are all these other people wrong to claim it isn't indoctrination? He stated it as a fact.

I think I can do justice explaining this here- there are all these extremes on this earth. I have a neighbor at a program that complains all day about how he's not a famous baseball player and how his alcoholic dad prevented him from going professional. Years ago, I went to a Mosque, and I wanted to talk more to someone who was in a line with me to get food which they serve at the Mosque I went to. He stood next to the door and waited for me to end talking to someone, when I went over, he handed me 5 dollars thinking I needed money from him for food. I was amazed at what had happened. How does the mind accept this? Maybe some hero can explain this to me who is very talented whether they care about people or not.

Instead of having leftist colleges, just have people go on leftists' chat rooms on the internet to better learn the leftist way. They can learn the same material without having to be taught college textbooks from a professor. The colleges are supposed to get people ready for the real world and this would produce the same result.

Someone will call me a racist for this you have to bear with me here- shouldn't the US president always be a white male? Not because every president was a white male but because it is majority white that it is the norm. Take for example Saudi Arabia, their king will never be a black male, is their country racist? I think it should always be a white male because it is the thought that this white male cares and wants to make it work that they want what is best for you and can better your situation even if you are a minority. I think it is absurd because people would rather a minority be president than a loving white male only because they want a minority president that badly that it must be done. They will lie and say that the minority was the better candidate to cover for their wants of how being an American is perceived. Maybe I'm being delusional here the thought of a loving white male president giving black youth high fives, maybe that has never happened I don't know but a lot of minorities loved Bill Clinton. Me personally it should always be a black male president for the future and no other race or gender, just stick with one. I no doubt would think this black male president has my best interest but because of democrat- conservative divide it just ruins it and it will never happen.

Do you notice how in America you can only have their "zeal" for religion unless if you are pro-gay marriage? But you can have orgies, you can leave religion, you can get into fights at football games, you can steal wages, you can cheat on your wife with no penalties for any of this. The only thing they won't give you that goes against religion is being a gangster, the cops will follow you. There is an agenda of some sort.

Please don't tell me that you have an explanation for why some woman will feel shame and terrible for cheating on her husband and another woman will announce it to the public without remorse. There has to be an explanation for this, yes back when humans didn't know what they can and cannot do such as drinking water from a dirty river that would make sense why a woman would not feel shame. No one can explain why this woman feels shame and the other one doesn't. I have an explanation, but they don't want to hear it. Important

True love doesn't exist. I know this because when a guy falls in love with a girl the girl is always below age 40 before her body is no longer appealing to look at. The guy may think he fell in love with a new girl and that she's his true love once his wife hits 40 and that his wife was just a misunderstanding of true love. Mind you this is only when she is 40. If she was 65 or above, I would completely understand. Since the marriage age is 18 here, you only had 22 years with her, not long when you think about it with the love of your life.

When someone calls a Muslim a terrorist and a Muslim call them a name in anger, that's Allah saying, "back off", Allah knows their ambitions to get someone to quit religion it has nothing to do with racism we all know.

If you believe in cancel culture believing in ending what people did in the past as bigoted, what gives you the right to cancel someone and say they are mentally ill? Where does it end with people like these? Important

They tell you that you are a victim of injustice every day, everyone is teasing you, you have no hope, and then you go to the Mosque weekly where they rev you up by yelling at you. So, whatever you say as a Muslim, they will assume you want people to stoop to your level. Meanwhile everyone's credibly failing because they lie about scripture or defend Israel.

Society needs to fix problems do not have someone go get fast food to calm them down. I'm not making this up and I'm not exaggerating.

People keep taking and taking on this earth and the government keeps spying and spying on their internet searches. Why is it that if I was blowing bubbles one day outside people would ask questions and look at me, but they won't research freemasonry and their practices? The reason for this is people are lazy, they don't want to research anything, yet for some reason they judge for everything you do that isn't exact or perfect or word for word with your speech.

The worldly life is going on Twitter and ranting about a politician you don't like. That's not building people up, that's gossip, you do that for thrill.

Nobody understands the Talmud's, nobody can interpret them. Yes, they were used by most talmudists historically for Gentile and Christian hate, for corrupting the earth but that doesn't mean the authors of it were getting at it. I talked to a Jew at a store in Boston and he told me you do not just go on the internet and debate people with these books. They could be books of hatred and world domination, we don't know, no one of the earth knows. Important

They need to give us the right to get restraining orders for anyone who questions our mental health and tries to section us, but Massachusetts despites all.

I gave you responsibilities, I gave you many areas to work in, you did great in your 20s, now you grunt at everything I ask. You know loving your wives is a responsibility, and now if some guy sleep with a wife of yours, you are only mad because you don't want it going public you only care about pleasing your neighbors, you are madder at yourself than your wife. I told you that your kids are a blessing, and now you act like your kids don't exist. I don't know you anymore, you used to care about Palestine, you only support Palestine because you have been taught to do so.

The only way I will listen to a Christian who is convinced of their religion is one who says their religion is different from the Old Testament and the Old Testament Prophecies are no needed at all nor the prophets. The way I know Christianity is so far away from Judaism and Islam that it becomes its own thing. Christians believe Abraham is their forefather, your religion is still the same regardless that you worship Jesus. It does not have to be near 100 percent removed from Judaism. However, I expect at least 85 percent no one percent lower. Important

How can it be indoctrination if they gave you the truth? You then call me a cult member; do you not trust life to teach you the truth about laws that it has? Would you like it taught a different way? Will you then say it is not indoctrination? I give you no chance that you will change your stance.

To all the people who say they want to be Albert Einstein when they grow up, and then they grow up and they are not him, do you know how sad he was?

David Wood I am aware you want a holy book that not one Muslim leaves, I am sure Allah knows people will leave Islam. David doesn't have to make YouTube videos about how he believes that Islam is false because the religion has apostates.

Since Christians believe their god blesses America/ Europe, everything is fine and dandy, if the world did end, it wouldn't end in a catastrophe, and it would never be because of their leader's failure. They would never see it coming so they don't warn of it.

I thought religious leaders or medical professionals have a strong grip on their clients or pawns. It is the opposite. It does happen sometimes, but the overwhelming majority want to be by their clutch they expect for their religious leaders to have that kind of hold on them. I'm dead convinced cults don't exist especially in today's earth with the internet where your beliefs are challenged.

If these religious books are so unique that only Bart Ehrman can understand them, how can Muslim countries have Sharia Law? I don't think there is a bigger fraud than him in this whole earth. Bart it is a book 60 percent of Muslims must memorize, that is over 1 billion people. Bart, I'm supposed to believe that there is one human on this earth in this generation who can understand scripture and the world was given to you to us to understand it? How do you know you can interpret scripture? And before Bart corrects me, I know there are around 5 people he likes throughout history who interpreted scripture he nods his head at. Good thing Bart was given life or else we could never understand scripture guys. Though we are not worthy of Bart's greatness, we ask him for his services, Bart you can run Iran.

These Abrahamic faiths were never intended to conquer the earth. Though I believe Christianity is false and only some verses consist of Jesus' word, the point I'm making is that it took 300 years for it to pick up globally for their god to be known. Why did no one convert until then? Why are you so convinced, and they couldn't be? This is one reason why I picked Islam, because it spread quick.

All this claiming injustice from different people's it will confuse the public. In the future the public may not make sense when they rant and resort to fist fights, only time will tell.

The reason why there cannot be footage of Prophet Muhammad is because it wouldn't match what anyone thinks. I'm not implying he was a peacemaker and a victim, but it could show that the Jewish tribes of Arabia were vicious and constantly tried to have him killed where Prophet Muhammad wanted to make it work, but the Jewish tribes didn't. We know Prophet Muhammad tried signing a treaty for Arabia which people overlook. It would also show that the polytheist tribes were oppressing their people and were very corrupt. Guess what, if you are going to unify Arabia and bring laws, you are going to make enemies that's the real world. We already know if Prophet Muhammad tried to conquer the world (it was the Caliphs if anyone bothered to check the sources), that was the way the world was between the Byzantine Empire and the Zoroastrian Empire. Important

I'm not saying I would be involved, but I have to say that the riots in Sweden over the Quran burning is good. At least the Muslims care about people, people in Sweden all they care about is money and the climate. Swedish people are the victims? Who are the ones who are dying? Muslims are. If you want to call me a radical since you are so sensitive, then fine.

I was looking at a photo from Legally Blonde of Reese, no judge would take her serious that she takes fashion more seriously than she does a court case of someone spending life in jail because her first concern is how she is perceived. This movie must be parody, again how Hollywood is not even close to reality.

Just because a white terrorist is labeled mentally ill by the media and a black terrorist is labeled a terrorist, that doesn't mean anything. It's not like the white terrorist on Death Row is relieved he is deemed mentally ill. I bring this up because they always think some injustice is being done to them personally, obviously if I ran the determining factor of this, I would swap to two races so the white terrorist is deemed a terrorist and the black terrorist is labeled mentally ill. I can't understand why people have to have it this way. Do you trust any judgement someone makes?

People are either all good or are all bad, there are a few people that are gray but that is so rare. I have met so many people where I have tried to get them to care about someone besides themselves or at least to admit fault for what they do, they cannot. Where is the gray in this?

To those who say the Quran can only be understood by Arabic speakers, we people who don't speak the language can just watch what you do to understand the Quran. The claim doesn't hold up well because if the Muslims do the practices wrong, that means Arabic speakers cannot understand the Quran themselves since the Quran is applied literally.

For you to be a nihilist, you can't enjoy sex, beer, sports, vacations, you don't believe in anything. Only out of human requirement do you do them. You've claimed there is nothing on this earth you enjoy, I find that hard to believe. I know you have had years of these things, there is something on this earth that makes you smile, don't lie about it. You may have lost all hope in what you do, that doesn't mean the world has no joy when people find joy in it. You're speaking on others behalf to tell them they cannot get joy from beer for instance. I've seen it where my sister's husband talked about how he partied in college, it brought a smile to his face, are you saying he wouldn’t go back to that or that he is remembering it wrong? For nihilism to be right, all people must be in agreement there is nothing on the earth that brings joy, not just you. Also, if you claim life is suffering that means life has purpose to suffer, you gave purpose to life. Why would all people be jealous if nihilism was correct?

I can think of far better examples than this, this is a poor example of something a person can never do on this earth. The Soviet Union was atheist, at least a portion their women wore skirts in public, if some guy goes up to a woman there and pulls their skirt up for whatever reason, people will go over and beat him up. Just because the world could accept something like this in the future, does that mean you are right to do that if the laws of the country accepted this? You don’t think this upsets a deity? Important

Reading books all day will teach you knowledge, ethics, it will give you purpose, gives you a good amount of class, it will NOT turn you “innocent, religiously obedient” like a religious person is. Having watched years of shows like South Park, hanging out with the wrong friends, being accused of autism as a teen I’m sure didn’t help my growth which was proven recently that I don’t have, years of cussing people out on Xbox live, and watching years of prank videos on the internet I have found has made it near impossible for me to be “innocent, religiously obedient.” It may work for you, but I doubt it. It may have something to do with me being in a public high school and a public college. I know someone who went to a private catholic high school, and he joined the military after that so that didn’t work for him either. It may work later in life, but it has been over 3 years now and I have shown no improvement, I am not a devout Muslim by any means. What you are reading is probably coming from an American that wanted good for his fellow Americans, not a pious Muslim look somewhere else for that perspective on matters. Important

If Mahmoud Ahmadinejad is holding up a Bible and a Quran at the U.N. Assembly, you can just take your chances that Islam is correct. Someone will say, “that’s Mahmoud he said he would wipe Israel off the map.” Right, but this is the U.N. Assembly. Could there be any bigger platform to explain your religious beliefs to someone? It’s not like the ones running the event kicked him out and called him crazy the second they saw a Quran in his hands like what would happen in every country in North America and Europe. I cannot find the video of it but if you type in Mahmoud Ahmadinejad U.N. Quran, the first two photos that come up on Google images shows this event did happen. Important

Fox News, MSNBC, CNN, these aren't actual news sources, back in the 90s and maybe until 2004 they were. The ones who run these programs know this is to give flashy headlines to dumb you down. People may prefer actual news, but they will watch this if it is on. I know the stories that will be on it, you don't need to know anything they put out not that there are any major events in the world today, you know what the world does. I know some clown will say "what about the Ukraine War?" Right, what about it? At most, 40k people died from it, the numbers aren't going higher much at all. Gas prices did go up, but they are still manageable. It bothers me because the news said Russia was planning an all-out invasion and everyone had to evacuate immediately which was a lie to get views. Remember, you already hated Putin to begin with, you expect an action like this from him. For me, I didn't need to know this war happened.

The best job you can ever be given is a human resource who interviews people for the job. If you can find the twitter account which usually you can, they will give you every detail you need to know about them. Then you can sit down with them and say, "tell me something about yourself", when you already know everything about them, you only ask them to see how they respond to it. Also, you can disguise questions to make it seem like you didn't read their twitter, but you ask the right questions since you know them beforehand. If anyone thinks this is creepy, weird, or stalkerish, stop posting all your information on the internet and make your accounts private, you're an adult you can do that.

If what Nimr Al Nimr did goes widespread of Muslims quitting life, Islam will end. I know he's one person and not that many people do that, but he set the example. He accepted his death, but I will always think of him as a hero, what he did was selfish, it was not for Islam it may have been for his Shia supporters, but it was mostly about him making a statement he kept saying he wanted to die if he had to. This is what happens when someone loves something so much and people stop at nothing to take it away. Nimr did the right thing having sermons go worldwide to reach anyone, but still he knew he quit. Saudi Arabia could collapse if all the Shias did this where 15% aren't law abiding even if the laws are out to ruin them. If the Shia's seriously think they have a plan to overthrow the king, they are good people, but they have no clue what would happen thinking they can just build it back up. I have said it millions of times, somebody has to lose on the earth, we can't all be winners.

It's not that I like my ideas that I propose on how to run the earth. Some I really like, but it is that I truly hate your ideas and they have shown time and time again not to work. I'm more than willing to try anything but your feminism, for example you push.

I was talking to a staff, and I was in so much physical pain, in the middle of the conversation I said, “Jesus Christ help me”. I was banging the table and this guy couldn’t realize anything he said we would take you to urgent care, no it’s far more serious I needed painkillers. What more proof do you need that if you are in that much pain, you will call out for a God?!

I will share this with you, I was far more afraid of Dr. Phil than Adolf Hitler (I am aware Hitler is dead) when I was a teen because my mom and I argued, and I thought by some way I could end up on the show and he would destroy me it would be too tragic for me to make it more than 5 minutes with him. Hitler, I had hated me as part German I would be afraid he would indoctrinate me; most likely get me killed or at the least make me into this monster. When I was a teen someone, I knew called me a Nazi in an argument we had I took serious offense to it, I never thought Hitler could do something of this magnitude this to someone he supported. Years later I look at Dr. Phil and I am speechless that the people in it have no hope to help themselves and I would have tried being on it at least to fight him to preserve what I thought was good in me. I don’t know if Dr. Phil would like me, but I watched a podcast of him with Joe Rogan and I realized that no therapist could help anyone. What amazed me by far the most is that Dr. Phil gave out all the statistics and it is clear Dr. Phil is not trying to lie, deceive, and cheat people into his “mind control” like I had thought if he’s telling you the truth now granted, he will sell you his lifestyle and solutions, nothing wrong with that your celebrities do that too. This was a guy who I thought was sick and could break you down with these tactics. Things are never what they seem. That’s why I believe the world could end through something tragic but that is too deep for this paragraph I typed. This is simply to show that not only do we not know with anyone who cares in society and what kind of help they need. At this age, I trust Dr. Phil’s intent, I don’t think it is right for him to televise it but it isn’t that big of a deal to me. He’s not sick at all, nobody gets anything out of it including most of his viewers. I don’t think he is dumb, and I never want to imply I could do better with Americans who don’t listen at all. No amount of money, studying books all day can they get someone like Dr. Phil to get across to someone. To kind of parody this, if I did go on the show and believe me, I would be kicking screaming and crying, after the show is over and I go home, I would be smart enough to realize wait nothing happened and go on with my life as a teen. I remember when the ambulance came to take me when I was 12, I think that day was horrific, there was 3 paramedics. I remember I was sitting on the stairs to the upstairs where the bedrooms are with my head down as they watched me, they didn’t take me away but all they saw was me crying, I was still crying after they left. I would have done far worse being on Dr. Phil in front of an audience, I could picture me barely walking in where they have to hold my hand and walk with me. That memory would last for years. If I had Dr. Phil's number, I would call him up years later and laugh but man I would still be a bit hurt by it. It would be worth it to call him up smiling saying you're not going to believe the licensed professionals I have met in the last three years who I think need the help, you not being one of them. However, only those who need the most help by far go to Dr. Phil's show, there is not even a slight chance they would put me on Dr. Phil.

Vin Diesel in the Fast and Furious series wears a cross during the whole movie, there are scenes with the whole gang praying to their false god together. The irony here is too much, this movie wouldn't exist in the theocracy because at least one person would emulate it and cause a fatal car crash for many on the highway.

This is not intended for the talmudists, freemasons and catholics who go along with the "third" temple, or they want power that badly and see their false hereafter as being amazing. This is intended for people who don't even want to live on the earth and only complain. What makes you think that me being your slave for eternity is going to change the fact that you are miserable? How do you know your hereafter will be perfect when you don't even want to risk your life for it? You have no care in the world, the only thing that keeps you alive is you wanting your revenge because you are not famous on this earth. I don't intend this to someone like Ben Netanyahu who might be the most miserable person on the planet, he cares enough about the zionist cause, and he wants good for his talmudic people if you see what I am getting at. The only thing these people think of is themselves, yet they expect you to do all the work for them. There is no greater entitlement on the earth then expecting people to serve you where this earth and your hereafter must be always about you. I am sure Netanyahu wanted to quit at times knowing people like this exist in his zionist cause, I don't know how many, but it is worth addressing. This is why Muhammad said disbelievers have a sickness and it grows though we know it can't go further than this it would be at the max amount of sickness. I will give you a name of one of them that many of us know well, Robert Spencer who says frustrated "the nazi's are taking over" at a conference when talking about Muslims in Europe doing Sharia Law of his because Robert needs his way.

Because white people are not allowed an opinion, this will cause either frustration or quit. If they are frustrated, they will not be able to get their point across and they won't unify, if they quit that means they've done what the world wants. Society cannot cancel a whole race of people. What white people don't know is all races have many people in them that are frustrated just like them even if they are allowed an opinion.

I don’t think people lose their ability to care about people and do the right thing in ghettos. I think their perception is ruined. They don’t know what they see any more, they can’t understand things that we understand. I feel this at times. This is what the trauma’s do to them, it’s tragic really. I’d bet the majority have lost everything and no longer know right from wrong not that they want to do the wrong thing. All they see is bad stuff every day, they don’t see Malcolm X everywhere. See, people wanted to call me racist there, but it backfired that they may be the ones who don’t care about culture and values but because they view all as normal, Malcolm X plays little if any role. I wonder how much people in ghettos know about him. I’m not saying they are dumb but that there is no room for him.

If someone is talking about a serious traumatic event such as the talmudic ghettos in Germany and they aren’t phased by it at all and are smiling, then the story did not go at all like the way they are describing it. Having argued with a 40-year-old veteran that chased after me and almost assaulted me after I called him an hole for not giving me footage of a cop blaming me for a car crash, seeing the hurt in his eyes you know something is wrong with him. These talmudists must be part of this .4% of people who don’t feel anything that are incapable of being hurt they have some sort of gift. You notice how nothing bothers them more or less for them to talk about?

If you go on a website that hates Islam, the owner criticizes Muhammad to no end. The irony here is most Muslims only care about Allah and more than that themselves. If Muslims did want to conquer the world, it is because they don’t want their beliefs challenged and to be criticized like everyone else on this earth. Muslims are not under some spell by Muhammad, most don’t even care about him. Muhammad wants you daughter to be an Israelite, Muhammad is the one doing the work, not Muslims they could care less they don’t reach out to people. Just a word of advice, if you send hate mail to Muslims in their teens and 20’s they will respond by angrily, I think that is your goal. You want to anger the ones that care. If only you really knew……

Maybe there is some truth to life that if you are miserable in today’s world, you would be miserable at any other time in history. This is far too deep for me, but it must be questioned by the best Imams the world has ever seen. I think it is right, but I wouldn’t say so for sure. I don’t want to blame people who have lost hope in the last 20 years, but so we establish people know what to expect, we all know what people can do on this earth we are very educated. Important

I think Allah invented other planets to dupe people into thinking there is more out there and a greater purpose to life since people are more interested in them over anything else imaginable. You never know for sure.

“Oh, I was struggling.” Really, because you seemed very happy when you sent airstrikes over Dresden. You were struggling when you cheated on your wife despite how she was always there for you, and you didn’t care at all? Did you struggle so much that when you were told not to send sadistic messages to Yemeni people dying you just had to do it? You didn’t even know what struggling was and now you’re a licensed psychiatrist in the matter. Now I have repented they will say.

I don’t know if this is recent, but people want to join the illuminati. These are the people who speak out against it. You only speak out against it because you are jealous of acting like what they do is immoral because you’re not in it. I would only join them for money alone and it isn’t worth it they will hurt you mentally bad. These people would embrace what they do thinking they have victory over their haters by doing the unheard-of things they do like orgies in mansions. People are so weird.

There are guys who want a wife that complains all day, is mean towards them, always criticizes them, and cannot take criticism etc. These guys find this attractive and appealing in a woman, but it will never work. This is proof that not everyone will get what they want on this earth that a request like this cannot be given. Keep in mind what these guys are asking for, it’s not a crime like robbing, nobody is harmed by this, it’s just how the world is designed and has always been that way. People will argue all day that there is a way to make it work between the two when it never has, and it never will. To these people I say keep trying this, I can’t tell you anything.

Allah wants the men to be leaders. He doesn’t want societies to be egalitarian. It has to be a patriarchy. It isn’t an injustice; it is a society how it is run.

Dogs should be defensive. I know vicious implies they would attack a child, but they are smart enough to know not to do this, but they still will if the dog is too close if they are trained to even a child possesses a threat. If dogs are like this, they will attack someone by accident and will be put down in society despite how I will show you that your dog is not a protector. A dog should be able to protect against intruders, most dogs cannot, they will lick the intruder. This I believe is done because a God does not want animals to be always ready to be aggressive. They must be kind to strangers such as children. I gave you an example because dogs should be aggressive, they should be made that way in theory! Dogs don’t need to be protectors, the dog barking at night is enough to wake you up and have you protected against an intruder. Wouldn't it look bad for us as a society if we are walking our dogs and they are ready to attack anyone? My sister's dog is very nervous, she is defensive, she is not aggressive in any way she warns people that she doesn't want to be around strangers. This is how dogs should be, civil. We are civil, dogs are to be civil! Important

This is how I feel, and this may be the harshest criticism of humanity I've ever said, one thing seems to lead to the next. First, they want gay marriage, then they want gay adoptions, now they want transgender kids. When do they stop? Can these people at least give us a point where they will stop? If you notice too, they get meaner each thing they demand, soon I will be viewed far worse than a bigot for simply asking why do they do this? This is how I know a generation their brain is going to get messed with by these people. Why is it people hate talking about politics, but they tell you that you must accept theirs? So, we can't even question what they do? Because the internet jokes about this making it seems like something worse will be legal as some sort of comedy to poke fun at these people, we never stop to understand the serious nature of their demands. Maybe this does nothing to the next generation, but why do they keep saying it must be done and it must be this way? They will insist this is not playing with fire, but it seems odd they keep saying everything will be fine and this must be pushed fast meanwhile more people each generation are miserable. If the earth has laws, this must stop! Important

Some hindu lady said hinduism is superior to all religions because it has a virgin culture. This is the first I've ever heard of it. It scares me what the world will be like 30 years from now and what dumb ideas will come about.

We Muslims need abrogation because in Christianity no one knows which verses are more important than others since verses tell different perspectives. In Christianity you don't know if Paul's teachings are more important than the book of matthew for instance.

Maybe low wages will help people in their 20s and 30s come back to reality and no longer live an Instagram dream life.

If the Quran had a verse of who the first caliph would be, then Abu Bakr or Ali would be viewed equal as a Prophet for having their name in the Quran.

You have these values and morals, great. Now have these values for 1,000 years on the earth, then do another 1,000 years. Eventually you will wear out of it. If you were a Prophet, hearing 1,000 more years will not phase you at all. The earth will always be the same, once you hit 23 earliest, you have seen it all, tomorrow will be no different, it may be stressful, but it will be the same, you will not be on a spaceship to Mars. If you did go to Mars, it would be the same after a year or less. I want people to go to Dubai, tell me when it gets old since I know it will. Important

If Aisha was yelling when she was dying because she wanted to live longer to serve Allah, how was she able to achieve this? You, the reader who has done fantastic listening to me know that this is a prison for us believers. If only I could feel this way. Everything I love seems to go flat. I still love history and culture in the photos, it just doesn't hit nowhere near I remember once I hit 26 it seems to almost die but not fully that would be a lie if I said that. I can barely form a smile out of it. Apologies if this is negative, you know how direct I am, you and I know the earth could have achieved something amazing, but it didn't.

Someone said you embrace the world around you as a Muslim and not to point fingers at what people do, the problem with this is life is a test and there is a hellfire for those who do those actions and that we are in a prison. hellfire will speak and it will say "we were not of those who prayed". That means if it wasn't thought up by a Muslim such as legalizing prostitution, nothing good has come of it. Nice try, my advice to him is to be agnostic or coexist.

Please hear me out before jumping on this because it will sound either biased or maybe desperate for attention with a flashy headline- in America, there are so many kinds of sick, some might be sick some might not but here are the obvious to me- Shaun King, Jesse Watters, Lil Nas X, Rihanna, Ariana Grande, Ellen DeGeneres Eminem, Cardi B, Tucker Carlson, Tomi Lahren, Megan Fox, DeRay McKesson, Stephen Crowder, MGK, Dwayne Johnson, Ben Shapiro, Al Sharpton, Joe Rogan, Alex Jones. Candance Owens for instance isn't sick, I am a fan of hers. Paul Joseph Watson isn't sick, but I think he's immature many times which is fine. I didn't put Drake in, I don't like him for so many reasons, with Nikki Minaj I can't say yes or no I would lean towards no. An example of someone who I think wants good for people is Kim Kardashian, I have seen it and yes, I'm aware she wants to be viewed as a sex symbol. Someone like Shaun King wants enemies but then someone will say oh well you hate him. I barely remember he exists, and he wants me to hate him, do you see my frustration now? I tried to get people from all sides of it didn't I? This world has fallen so far, what happened to rappers who want you to party hard and do drugs but not Project X style? You can have your own list; I am not going to argue it and I am sure one person here is on that list of yours. Important

As long as you don't troll what people do and you take interest/ ask questions they will invite you to it since it brings them joy to talk about.

Allah cannot be incompetent because Allah gave you the brain you have. We didn’t give Allah his brain, we are not the Creator.

If I could give this to an orphan and they defect, that would be the best feeling in the world. I would feel so good about myself.

There has to be a God because when I was at a waiting unit in a hospital the staff and I argued with each other, and they injected me. I called them nazi’s for it. The next day I told a worker there who was watching me, and he was angry I had said that. In America, I can call someone that, the American environment got this wrong. I know it is wrong to call a hospital employee that despite the fact they were big time wrong to inject me when I tried to get their attention. In America, freedom allows for you to call a worker that, America will never say I am wrong to say that my freedom that America champions would be robbed there. But the same people will keep saying “you don’t see God”, well there I sure had a sense God is real. Someone will still argue that the worker was wrong to get so upset that calling people nazi’s is a right.

If people are so sensitive the world will collapse. Their egos are going to get out of control, they will start demanding things that have never been asked for before. That must be why it is that way. Instead of asking why people are sensitive I have the reasoning as to why it is.

Jack Thompson said video games teach children efficient ways to kill people. What if this is Syria, can children there not have these video games? I don’t think he thought this through. America can become Syria; we all know this. That’s activism, it’s for nothing and it leads to nothing.

Christians give us Muslims trouble for praying towards the Kaaba, at least half of the churches there is a gigantic cross that Christians pray to.

Restrain anger first and foremost. If you can do this, you will have good ethics and will wish good on humanity. This is something you must earn; it may be more difficult by age 28 it may not but you must hold on tight. For some it is easy, for others it is not. You don’t have to forgive those who have wronged you, just don’t think about it.

The best job ever is to work at a booth convincing woman to join only fans. I can’t do it without laughing.

I didn’t have the courage or even bigger the ability to tell a worker at my program that I may be the only gut at this program in his 20s who hasn’t tried to hit on you given that you have a son, and I would have to care of the son when I mentally cannot. My environment raised me to not allow saying that. It wasn’t meant to be cruel in any way but think about how it is on her son that he is 4 and doesn’t have his father much in his life. I think I couldn’t say it first because it involves a child who is innocent and also because I like her son as a person, we had a good talk once about how he enjoys swimming. For some reason I just couldn’t do it. It was meant to be about me how I’m not here to disrespect a woman and what I was about to say made it clear to me that yes, the child’s situation isn’t ideal, it should not be mentioned ever in any conversation regardless of if it is brought up by accident. Glad I didn’t say it.

Referencing freedom as a concept, free can mean 0. You don’t get your way in a free country. 0 can mean you get nothing.

For some reason I fought and fought to live for years, and I had to do it. When I fought 3.5 years ago date today is 5/27/2022 typing this, I had to drive my car to get out of my place during parts of the day my brain was chaotic out of control for some reason, I didn’t know it would heal but I appreciated sitting down on the stairs at night, it gave me purpose. Now I am not grateful because I am making it through life. I think it is because I have become too smart and years ago, I was just beginning. When you don’t feel you are fighting for yourself and you see nothing, it isn’t how we were made that’s one reason why we have religion.

I love to ask someone who thinks for instance claiming that there is a “flying spaghetti monster”, is someone wrong to kill themself? The person mocking religion seem to think life is a joke. Is the spaghetti god enough reason to live? I understand that these people got a quick laugh, but how long are they willing to talk about their false flying spaghetti monster? What will they sacrifice for what they support?

A Christian will talk about their personal connection with Jesus their love for him and his love for them. I am not trying to challenge if they have a true connection which I think they do but what they don’t realize is that in a Muslim country as-salamu alaykum. This means in English “peace be upon you and the mercy and blessings of God”, this is a greeting. So, if you live in a Muslim country, you are reminded by everyone you meet that God’s mercy and blessings are upon you, daily reminders like that are a reminder of love if you had ever forgotten. Christians have to go to Jesus on a personal level, in America you can say God Bless, but many people take offense to that, and most do not do that nor will wish you it. To the Christian, you would want daily reminders of people saying something like “may Jesus’s love and mercy be given to you.” To me Christianity cannot come close to be compared to Islam. I am not comparing the Christian Jesus to Muhammad if you were about to get offended. If you are offended by me explaining which religion offers you what you want, I don’t care.

As long as you are not killing someone of another race and the race is your own such as the brown people Saud's killing the brown people Yemeni you will get away with it in today's world. If a white person kills a black person unjustly, the whole world condemns it. If it is religious based, the world still doesn't care. The only cause the world wants to fight for is to end racism. When will we as humanity learn?

People believe in their fraternity that a god is on their side and will cause my eternal suffering when in their fraternity charter it mentioned nothing about pro-gay marriage where they never believed legalizing it would make someone into a hero or that anyone who didn't support gay marriage was worse than Hitler. That change in their fraternity came at least hundreds of years later. You people are cute or insane, I laugh.

They expect us to be empathetic, but they confuse when to have empathy and when not to. People assume the worst for us, why do we have to assume the best of intent from them? Important

The majority of the world cannot place biblical events in the correct area in the Middle East, how is someone going to tell me what a Bible verse is trying to get at and that I have it wrong? Important

A serious thing that could go wrong is that the citizens of a country may think a leader of Iran for instance wants to control their thought of the leader because the leader is hurt that people misunderstand him so the solution is to block criticism of him that would show he is not a good human being.

A day will come when the oppressed and the oppressor will claim victimhood status. I will bet everything on this. Important

Our environment is what determines us, with the exception for two people that I met who lives in Worcester, they are all awful human beings. If I lived in Worcester, I would be the same. If it were parenting that determined us, my parents are far away from me and don't live with me so that wouldn't make sense. If it were the media that determined us, why is it that media corrupts people who live in Worcester at a far higher rate, why are these people affected by it? If I left Worcester after living in it, I think I would go back to being a fair individual. Yes, I am saying it is nearly impossible to raise children to be fair in Worcester. Important

Do not do censuses for people they view it as generalizing people. They take serious offense to this. Do not ever say this is what people think in Massachusetts for instance even if you see the polls of what cities vote democrat majority.

Scripture already showed concern for people about pride. We have ego issues in today's world where we have to believe we are the best. Scripture in some way will always be relevant whether people want to accept scripture or not.

During Muhammad's time there was social unrest, injustice, and their serious problem being people were marginalized. The Arabs keep talking and talking about stories not exclusively the Bible and it worked. It made it possible that the Prophet Muhammad would come and give the Arabs victory. In fact, the Arabs before Muhammad came told stories about how someone named Muhammad would grant them victory, they were naming their kids Muhammad thinking their kid would be the victor.

There is a lot of potential in Islam's future, unlike the zionists who must be led by Khazars and will only have a minority of Arabs for instance in their government, Islam will allow for anyone of any background to be a leader in the religion, there is no written rule of a non Khazar minority. Maybe in the future Islam will not be Arab dominant, we don't know.

I bet it is fun to be almost always wrong and you know you are wrong just to get a response out of someone, but they would know you want to be intentionally wrong so it would never work.

I find it amazing that centers that claim to be Christian in America are divided down the middle of supporting democrat or republican. To remind myself, you cannot be a pastor and speak against one party, you lose half of your support and run a good chance of losing tax exempt status. They put people in the same church. Churches should be assumed democrat or republican, everybody would win because then you get your church, and you can say Christianity encompasses both. The Christian leaders don't do this because they are worried about hatred of the other party, I understand this concern. Important

The most fun of your life I believe I don't know for sure is to be an occultist hiding in Christianity talking about God's love when you know the god you believe is near opposite to the Christian god and your false god is a total maniac.

Remember the Angels keep score of your successes, not your sins. If you think the Angels count your sins and ignore your successes, you will be destroyed mentally. It has happened to believers more than one could imagine. Don't look at your sins, look only at your successes, that is what will matter when you are being judged and I know this because your sins are forgiven, and Allah does not mind as the hadith states. If you have any free time, you can explain the message of Islam to someone and that is a good deed, people will not wonder why you are not rich they will listen, it's enjoyable to do, it's a win-win. The only way your successes would ever be thrown out is if you had murdered someone, the odds of you doing such a thing is highly unlikely as you and I already know. Important

Charlie Kirk thinks he loves this amazing life being upper class and having all this media coverage, but the reality is he obsess about politics all day, he doesn't live, he doesn't make mistakes that is not what humanity is meant for. I used to obsess about politics, but the thrill only lasts for a few years, he plans to do it for life, he will end up miserable turning a job into all he is made for. This would be a hidden example of a law of life.

Careful what you speak of, when you talk about how Massachusetts is genocidal, a good portion of humanity lies about their religious beliefs to you, most of humanity cannot read, Catholics support molesting young boys, how your mental health has failed, and how Hell exists, you are not supposed to declare this maybe once a month briefly at that. I type these facts and do not tell people these things out loud anymore. This will just make you furious and you may not be able to control it. Remember, be delicate or at least sensible always. I don't know for a fact, but I am convinced nobody can talk about these subjects without anger and passion in them. What this does is stress you out beyond your capability, this shows the world can end because normal people will turn aggressive out of anger, fear, or hate. When you rev up a car's engine putting it in the wrong gear intentionally, the car reacts badly, and the engine could break.

I put in work I yelled across the hallway of a wait room in a hospital at a Muslim lady who walked away from me when I mentioned the Saudi genocide of Yemeni people. Always put the Ummah before your suffering and you will be successful in life. You will never wake up without purpose and meaning for your heroic act. That was a great day for me! Important

There was a nurse who was wearing a cross, I told her that there is no evidence the Messiah was crucified, and that I have yet to find anything on the Messiah being crucified. I forget if she said why are you talking about religion this is not the time when she's asking me questions about my physical health I don't want to answer, but I did say to her I see your cross, so I thought you wanted to talk religion, she then put the cross away behind her dress. You never know which ones will respond.

I don't mean to sound pompous as if I am saying I knew I was right, but I knew when Elon Musk got Twitter, there is nothing crafty he can do with it. We keep trying to prop up life and I have read his tweets some of them are a bit interesting or a quick laugh but nothing that would matter for him to run Twitter. He may impress his die-hard fans but for the rest of us, he can't do much for us. If I put my all into it, I don't think I could do much better or worse if I tried like anyone else, yes, I am saying our lives are not much better than those from 1950. Unrelated but that's why the music industry is so big in today's world, that's the best method to prop up life. This new generation has so much media that I didn't have until I was 16, the internet didn't open up fully until 2009-2011.

In Christianity it is always the girl talking her boyfriend into the faith. In Islam it is always the guy talking his wife into the faith, realistically which one would you bet God would pick?

If you are talking to someone, look at their head just focus on their head only. Then, think about this, whoever you are talking to needs a brain in order to function to get thoughts to talk to you or type on the internet for instance. God gave them their brain, and for most people their brains must function in order for society to run…. does this sound so ridiculous, impossible, or unbelievable? If you make things as simple as possible, you will see you make a convincing case of the need for God. Important

If you cannot rationalize something you see, don't try to spend all day thinking about it to make sense of it, just try to forget that you see it, in a week it will be like it didn't happen.

You cannot claim Islam is trying to conquer the world when Saudi Arabia and Iran are fighting proxy wars with each other. Is this friendly fire? A fight for control over who is the dominant Muslim country? The second question is to absurd to even answer.

If you want to be the biggest jerk ever, just debate every policy you encounter. But do not do this, Allah will not like it, take my word on this.

A law of life if we don't clean, we get ants. Also, we cannot eat fast food three times a day and no matter how it is displayed it will not be healthy.

The reason why you think Sharia Law is strict and you will never convert to Islam is because you never were law abiding with anything! When you were taught not to report everyone in middle school you did anyways like you were perfect and they were punks.

If evolution is right, find me an ape that can do math, only one of them will be enough for me to leave Islam.

I have to ask you something, if America is involved with every war today, wouldn't you question any detail about Peral Harbor in the regard that America benefited from it being that America's first goal is to be in every war? To me this is so suspicious why America would claim that the attacks were unprovoked. That alone would make you question anything; Japan just attacks one day.

Some note I would like to add, if you are angry, most people will get angry. What you are doing is you are bringing up bad memories of people like their parents yelling at them when they were a teen. Unless if this is Palestine where the Palestinians will join in, you cannot do this on this earth. Not because you can't mentally for yourself or legal reasons but because no one wants to get angry except you at the time which happens so often with us people. Remember too that you cannot keep trying to talk about new subjects, they will keep saying no, this will frustrate them. Believe me when I say you are so limited in the things you can talk about with others after you have found people who don't think your intent is to ridicule them. Also remember, we have to discuss Palestine at least once to people and we will get angry, but it has to be done. Important

If the lgbt community forgets everything about being gay on this earth and the memories they enjoyed on this earth and they become people who get irate over the thought of gay in Paradise like I think, what point is their life? To get as much joy as possible? That doesn't make sense and I just showed it that they actually wasted their time to go to a place they were already going to where they are not who they were on the earth.

Even if Islam was proven not to be a fact, is there anyone in America that would be interested to learn a small bit about what people do in the Middle East? These people will go on forever with their hobbies, everything has to be about them.

Nothings is viewed as dire by people that they must know or be informed about such as the Yemen War. These are the same people who have American flags on their houses, something they must share with me since I have to drive by their houses to get to my destination. They not only tell me how to think but what my paycheck will be with the politicians they vote for. Important

This is something genius that I think I have struck on, but this is all or nothing it is either all correct or it is nothing at all that I am getting at. We are all trying to interpret the earth, we are trying to find our role in it and that is found through expression which is found in our club. I have this perfect example to give, someone was doing wheelies with a dirt bike I saw near a railroad. He's trying to find his place in the world and he's fighting his brain that wants to push him out. He's also inviting anyone to do the hobby he is doing. What he's doing is he's making a statement and he's taking a stand against not society but the earth that he belongs on the earth. Remember too that this hobby of his only lasts so long, he has to find more and more things he can do besides that he has to keep showing the world he deserves to live in it not him necessarily, but his brain deserves to be put on the earth. What he's really doing is he's fighting the earth with a great method. By the way, in mental health they call this "coping skills" believe me when I say it is so much bigger than that, that kind of gets at what I mean. There is no great method that all can do as we all know. This person who isn't famous is a real champion and could be our leader for something so basic but of course he would need years and years of education first. I wish I could find better words about the fight he has to establish justice for something most overlook. This shows how life which is so simple can be worthwhile, for myself it shows how special also us humans really are. Important

If I keep correcting people, telling them my beliefs, debating, telling my side of what happened, telling people what they should do when it involves me, people will feel intimidated by me. You have to be really smart to know how to avoid stuff like this. Life will be so hard in the future.

This is what I have noticed, for most people you meet no matter how much it offends or makes them feel awkward someone, they will not be mad at you the next day, nor will they grunt for having talking about it. We all know if you talked about religion every day for weeks they sure would, but for something they get deeply offended for it won't work. On the internet people cuss me out, call me far worse than stupid, and call me all these names when I try to talk Islam with them so in person these people aren't offended….??? This would also mean whatever I post on facebook isn't upsetting people much given the fact of how much on the internet offends them, Islam will not offend them any more than conservatives do. Important

If you waive an American flag not a black lives matter possibly an lgbt flag then you are advocating for your suicide. This is what happens when you graduate high school and get a bad education at least. Informing yourself about what goes on in the country about anything politics related will cause your suicide guaranteed. Important

The only thing that saved America from not being too sensitive to never talk about a subject again is the internet. If it didn't exist, there would be no reports on Palestine since people get mad to know about it. The internet has helped save my life.

Guess what religion can persecute gays because gay is an ideology, now we see it with all these parades!

I might be the only person in America that gets angry at the American flag. There are a few people who burn the American flags but no one who hates the flag. It's always the people they hate but never the country. What amazes me too is these idiots do so much to get the country to fail like skip on work and collect welfare. The way I see it these people have already quit on America, burning a flag shouldn't do much worse for who they already are. Maybe Allah doesn't want them to be that horrible. Important

Someone at my funeral, please shriek when you see my loved ones one time, it's for me. I will greatly appreciate this in the Hereafter.

First world countries historically haven't believed that evil exists. Whatever tragedy occurs, it is from mental health issues they say.

When Islam runs America which it will, there will be legislation passed that will be called No Child Left Behind where all children in America are taught religion.

Hamza Yusuf said he converted to Islam in 1977, he smiles talking about Islam in interviews when he talks about it now. There is no way possible for him to convert to Islam in 1977, he would not have found the archeology for it. What this tells me is that now today he says Islam is possible, notice how he's smiling he enjoys Islam thinking "now I am right", he was never that sure of it he just liked it. He's not giving you the whole story why he converted I know. They all say, "oh I knew Islam was right", no, you wanted Islam to be right, don't lie. Important

Was it worth these people's time to write a letter to Baghdadi, a guy who will do anything for his beliefs to make you his slave for eternity? Or are these people doing this for attention? I sure hope not.

I want to get a part time job and not do certain tasks at it and just say "I am not doing that my back could hurt or my shift is almost over you do it." I know I would get fired, I just want to see one how long and two how mad the staff gets.

The truth is we will never know how I got my act together to not be a menace in society or just trash everyone on the internet. It could be anything I cannot attribute to one thing, or it could just be age.

I read a message on the internet from a father with a 12-year-old daughter who said this isn't exact- I don't agree with older guys messaging my daughter to try to flirt with her, I know they are not trying to meet up with people but c'mon man. If in Islam Muslims will only let you talk to their daughters with them right next to you, think of just how serious this is to do on the internet. The father doesn't recognize this at all. Important

The guy typing this that you are reading from thought you needed to know everything to life, and you cannot prove God existed because there is mythology you don’t know about if it is accurate. You also are missing books that are lost that document history such as what the Sumerians thought. You don’t know the archeology if it is correct or not (this could be fixed easily to prove yes, the Prophets did exist). This would mean the only people who would know if God existed or not are the Prophets, or since I was Christian also the Disciples of Christ since they saw what in Christianity, they believed to be their god. We don’t know everything to life, only a true miracle would confirm God if this were what your requests are. Yes, the followers of Moses for instance this would be extended to for people who could believe in God since they saw miracles so you can extend it to them. What is amazing too is if you could work with him, he would spend all day calling you thinking you are some sort of hero.

The Muslims are so humble they look for what they cannot do in Islam, I look for what I can do in Islam. Let me explain, Muslims ask their Imams if for instance they can drink alcohol, they do this humbly and they try to justify it if they drink. I, however, check the sources to see if I can for instance have rap music blasting at my funeral.

You can dispute a derogatory term such as “kraut” since you do not find the term to be offensive at all. This is because whoever decided it can be wrong, simple.

You take “everything so seriously”, well guess what, you don’t take anything seriously!

I’d love to be the Islamic version of that guy in a psych ward who was very Sikh (yes a Sikh not a sick man) and he was a white convert. Picturing the most Arab person possible with all the hobbies, the dress, and the accent. What makes it so funny, is I can say “well, I believe Islam is correct.”

Omar Sulieman got arrested at the Capitol Hill for “protesting”. What he really did was try to get attention from cops to get arrest. I have two questions, how come when I protest for Yemen I will be arrested for a very long time? Why arrest him when he wants to be arrested and the charges were dropped the next day. I don’t think the law was ever meant for that.

There is never one single reason to be angry in your life if you had listened to near perfect to scripture.

Everyone will believe the world is fighting them in some way. This means all religions and all ideologies you can imagine will get so angry they will take it to the streets. Every human has their breaking point and feels special. Both Israel and the Arab countries believe the other side is winning all the time from the propaganda they see on the internet so both sides are very angry all the time. Remember too that Israel and the Arab countries will never surrender no matter what and there is no belief they hate more than each other it isn't even close. Important

To get a sense of how bold people really are in today's earth, Kesha at age 25 released a song called Die Young that has upside down crosses in it. She cannot be the only person in America to do something that bold and now she's getting worse at 35 somehow, she has found a way. So many people want to be famous, and they will do this. Important

The Prophets loved Islam so much that when they left their friends and family for good, they did not care at all. You will if you do, you cannot force this out of your brain unfortunately.

For some reason I can talk all the politics with my dad in the world and we never fight about it. However, I cannot mention religion once with him or he will get seriously mad as I have seen.

Someone gave me a good answer, he told me that the Middle East is out of his realm to say that he will never get involved. This is ok of a response.

David wood on YouTube claims that Christians are his "Christian people" as if he's the leader, yet he will not go to church once ever, another thing I can't understand

The flaw I have isn't that I don't care for the Palestinians for instance, it is that I never learn to care about for instance myself and what people think of me. You have to care about what people think about you in some way shape or form beyond just people not suffering and supporting the cause. Another flaw I have is that I don't see the point in success for myself ever, I used to blame the environment of low wages now I think it is me to purposely take a job at 35k a year verses a 100k a year seeing no reason at all and wanting the easier job as if the 100k job is not worth the extra stress for anyone.

Taking a woman's journal and then reading it to humiliate a girl is not funny to do. We all know this, but we didn't know an entity gets upset at this. Discipline your teen son if he does this in school, do not laugh with him. It's a law of life.

The data can be incomplete for instance what percent of women use journals to talk about a boy versus what percent of the women who use journals to talk about their day. I did not know this until age 29.

I will never know if all knowledge is the exact same after religion, history, and politician. I truly believe it is.

For some reason people know so little about Islam yet they hate it with a passion. I can't understand this. You would think you would need to know much more about Islam, and you would want to know so you could get dirt on Muslims if ever approached by one.

Do you notice how people go to people they like for religion and politics and then afterwards they believe everything they put out like I did with Pastor Steven Anderson? I think Allah just wants people to be happy instead of finding a preacher who they don't want to be around who just happens to be right on most of this. Pastor Steven Anderson said we had a good time here this is fun at a sermon. I felt this having watched enough of his videos hours' worth as if I was at his sermons the whole time. This means there may be very different pastors in Christianity not so much Islam, in Christianity we all know there is a wide range. Whether the conservative one is right or the democratic one is right we will never know. Important

People want power that badly they do not care for anything that is in the religion such as their followers being so dumb that these people cannot be able to deal with them for 8 hours a day working at a church where they have to keep asking the person to leave. These people who want power do not have a single principle whatsoever, the only thing they want is power, and after that is power. Important

They will never tell people in society who is mentally ill and who isn't with a database. I know this is by design knowing neighbors will not get along. This is something America has to do to prevent crime. For some reason I get all these people's twitters and facebook which only a small portion talk about. Important

Virtually anyone can be trapped by the FBI given our internet searches and who we talk to. We all know what is on the internet. There will be more and more people in the future going to psych wards or prisons because of this. The FBI tried trapping me by claiming I went to a school to pick up children and quit. When the FBI stops doing this, the concern should go away.

What is so genius of them that they did was that they reserved all the W's for them throughout all history, now they pushed getting W's nonstop for the public. How could they have thought to do this for something they wanted so bad to be the ruler over you? Now you can have everyone as your servant but us though you can try to match us and when you try you will get angry since we are celebrities, and we have the fame but now you can have a share of it through the cops and internet. They let go of something they care about by far more than their own families. I could never think to pitch this if I worked for them.

Has there ever been a guy so miserable that when he's in a war he walks with his gun and shoots it to do his job as if to want to die? Where he cares in no way if he lives or dies or if he gets promoted?

I wonder if the FBI guy when I told him it is ok to beat your wife knew I could end up too far in religion and end up in jail for a long time, so he smiled and left. He'd be smart because I thought he wanted to crash the Islamic faith and he thought that by me saying this no one would ever support me. He would know his intent.

For most people their life is their God. Granted they will show up to the wars, however they will do anything to live. The first thing of their concern is to live because of many reasons which now we know thanks to knowledge. Do you see how dangerous this is in a world that has people concerned out of their minds about themselves and their neighbors in every country?

The ones that are the most threat of quitting on their country are the ones who preserve it. Not those ones that don't matter where if they quit, they don't work jobs it won't matter if they quit. I can see their anger so clearly their anger when America is failing. This isn't me defending American taxpayers, it is a fact. Important

Someone is dancing on TikTok about Roe v Wade, and he has a huge following his name is BigNik, he claims Christianity Did the world intend for this? Remember that these are your neighbors, can we just do this to each other? I'd love to ask the people who seriously think the world could work this way.

A wahhab at a center was concerned for me because he said Jesus started when he was 30 and Muhammad started when he was in his 50's. I thought he was saying he was amazed for me or something. I hadn't a clue he was warning me this could radicalize me by accident! How was I to know when us two hated each other when I was there?

I am dead convinced that a Prophet or almost all the Israelites would get heated over the slightest thing that will not harm a single person, something that could be resolved in 5 minutes.

Do not spend more than 30 minutes a day talking to a female employee that you get along with and share hobbies with. The minutes may be less or more than you may have. This most likely will lead to adultery, please do not debate this one thanks.

What I am trying to spell out is that humanity overlooks key things. I will give you an example. They will know about the Yemen War and never mention it ever, but what is very important is that they don't know about how the wahhabs in Saudi Arabia run their show where they send terrorists out to destroy the Muslim faith on purpose. The wahhabs take a while to study their tricks and these people take no interest in studying it at all like they can. They will give out answers out answers like "Islam is not my religion, so I do not study it", what they are really saying is and both of us know that they do not study government policies. This is a huge reason how governments are lucky to get away with things. Important

People that do not like Islamic faith are convinced that was Muhammad and his followers that were uneducated in some way alone that only him and these followers viewed sex as a form of art and having multiple wives is something to aspire for all. What they don't know is that almost all people in history did this even today in parts of Europe with having multiple girlfriends. Yet in some way this is viewed as taking advantage of women and not being a real man.

If someone is truly miserable and feels that another country in Europe for instance will cause them to not be upset all day. If this is all they talk about, then they need to leave, they don't have to, but it is wise.

Some people unintentionally believe through no fault of their own that their time is worth that kind of money where they don't even want to answer the door for their neighbors whose only intent is to cheer them up. This causes them to get very upset. I think by now you and I know the reason.

The kkk looks scary because of their mask they put on and their reputation. As a child, I was deeply afraid of them. The mask is still concerning to me this day.

Though every person on this earth is to have some sort of secrets regardless of if they have done nothing wrong their whole lives, these secrets are to only be told by your friends and family ever. Do not give out too many details about yourself to others ever. This isn't a reminder but a fact here.

Do not laugh at your suffering. If it is minor such as a bad breakup from marriage this might be ok personally, I would avoid this but believe me it is nothing compared to what Kyle Rittenhouse did on twitter laughing at his PTSD that he got from being in court having to confess what had happened to him that night. What you may think is funny and calms people down about it, is actually very sick to market it in some way.

There are many people that will repost quotes from Mahatma Gandhi about Islam to show his approval of the faith. There are two huge errors with this, Mahatma was a horrific person if you look him up and he spoke highly of a faith he did not believe yet these people will take any support possible.

If you want to make fun of someone, always take responsibility for what disagreement you had with them say to them “ah it’s my bad whatever” and walk away. You will never get angry when you know you are right about something. Take for example when someone says that a lady says that she would be in every day of the week and I said to a worker that she told me herself this, he told me that she said that she only visits one day a week. Whether she does or not, he still blamed me in a disagreement so I kind of correct myself here. Remember, if this staff ever were wrong, he will never correct himself ever. He won’t even say that the advice was contradictory for both of us, he will cover for her every time since she’s staff and I am not go figure. It is as if both people are perfect. He already states where he thinks I am wrong as if to correct me when I feel right for instance that I am right for him to just close the window instead of act as if I cannot stand outside the window near it when I was never told not to do this by a staff ever. What can happen with a society like this?

So, there are cameras everywhere, they record people all day in psych wards, yet the footage will never go public knowing people will watch it all day for a thrill or for something horrific for themselves. Remember, we have short term chats that are mostly used for the sole purpose for us to humiliate each other and share on YouTube with others.

Do you see the issue that there are brotherhoods in religion, yet all people seem to want now is the opposite they want to feel so big that they want W’s over their own brothers in faith? Not just their enemies?

I think this is split which believers got this right and got this wrong here- when I saw a transgender woman dressed provocatively to go to a bar that children are at, this individual has been trashed nonstop in the comments for something they don’t even understand. This individual is so mentally ill they believe that something so important to them as being a transgender woman is something to be pushed onto children to be a stripper in front of them and does not in any way care what you think that in this person mind, they are some sort of hero. I fully agree with people that it should be dealt with in some way to put this person in a psych ward for a long time when we know that we cannot. This person is in no way a jerk in fact this person is the opposite. If you see two people get this angry at each other, the cops are to shut one of the other down so either the religious person or the transgender stripper is to be put in a psych ward. As I have shown, this will get out of hand and one of these two people will be hurt physically by this. You not even know how lucky these two are that they are not in jail for their actions towards each other. Important

These people will think you want attention, and you want to get fame when all you want to do is inform you for at most a small price in a book. The believers will certainly recognize this, the disbelievers will never. You are accepting that yes this will make enemies, these people would be described as 100% tolerance first to tolerate everything about who you are and not notice anything about what you are trying to say to them. Important

If scripture leads to arguments or the other person thinks you are truly crazy, then all you can do is say to someone God Bless given that we don't live in a Muslim country at all. It is simple and it will never lead to an argument ever. No matter if you are Muslim, they will not get mad at all and be happy with it not sure how often, but I am sure that plenty of times they will be. This is vice versa if you are a Christian and you say to a Muslim God Bless.

If you truly want to live the best life ever like most Americans, what will happen is that you will start competing with people forgetting what you initially wanted. That is what is happening with so many people where they go beyond taking things, they take it to the next step where they start taking things that bring them too much joy, stop competing and just relax before you steal wages from a friend like I know someone to do to me. People are convinced that they must show up to every event they can as if they are a celebrity now unlike in the 90s where literally they will watch anything on their smart phone, they can find for short term happiness. Mind you, all these people have Twitters they use daily. Kick back and be grateful for once. Important

Richard Dawkins can retire at what he does. He shouldn't in any way convert to Christianity, but my understanding is that he started in 2005 to explain his atheist views. This is so out of hand that he felt needed back in 2006 and I agree with this for him to push atheism that he was needed for his cause but now with social media he's not needed in any way shape or form to explain what he supports in atheism and biology.

If you really wanted to you could claim someone was incompetent if they were any faith other than an Abrahamic faith and they did not support Palestine in any way which would mean much of the earth where no matter how much material, you give them it does not matter in anyway shape or form. Let's all be honest by now none of this is hidden any more leaving these people with no excuse possible unlike the 90s where you had to find the news on the TV and figure out what was going on. We now have video footage of so much of what goes on in the Middle East where we know who the aggressors are. Remember, illiterate people can understand the news and understand it, this is very sad but also ironic for some reason I can't figure it out though. Important

I literally feel as if no human in America can build up America and that we are all wrecking it whether by intention or not.

One thing I am speechless about is that you can resent religion, not want to believe in religion, have no good in you, and read about theology all day long for many years including knowing what the earth does. Yet you will probably accept Allah's existence? In fact, I messaged a polytheist that I knew my whole life and at age 25 he knew Allah exists, but he didn't like the faith, so he denied it and claimed polytheism was right meaning he knew that at the least a God exists. He reads books all day and he dropped out of high school on purpose. He could be incompetent, but I highly doubt this. I figured out just now that he is in no way incompetent because we argued, and he said that there is no historical evidence at all of Jesus being crucified to this date, so he knew either Judaism or Islam is right. Meaning he was smart enough to fact check the sources unlike incompetent people ever. He also goes to religious centers to talk about religions with people his mom told me years ago that he does but he got into small disagreements over people which ends the relationships he has with the religious people he meets. Important

The internet used to be very little religion when I was on it at age 14, now the internet is flooded with religion it seems to be the only thing I find. Another thing off too is that there were so many blogs back in 2004 and now there are so little it is mostly gossiping websites about politics with new drama. Blogs are so needed in today's world.

Dogs are not barking all day long, this is excessive. They are free to bark but not this. I think the theologians already figured this one out though.

Every single preacher will be shut down and viewed as crazy for not accepting what the world goes along with like the lgbt community since we all know by now that the lgbt community will take over the Middle East eventually in countries like Qatar and Saudi Arabia.

I think all religious people know this, but this is a reminder that if you are angry all the time, you will never know when your anger is ever justified. You as a person, you want to never get angry, you know this the best that anger is not good for your wellbeing. It wasn't like you wanted to get angry to make a statement.

We all know a Prophet would scream at someone who came to him and said he genuinely wanted to die, and he was hoping to. Calling the guy sick from a religious standpoint for wanting to ever die when the Quran says to live no matter what.

I would truly ponder why someone would pick Christianity in today's world when you never make one single enemy for it. Important

Do they purposely leave all forms of religion from public schools in the hopes that you believe you found this great discovery with being Christian and you have all these Christian leaders on YouTube? If you watch David Wood's videos, they are intended for people in their 20s and up the lowest being 18 I believe obviously the lowest would be 16 to understand what is going on in them. I would love to know.

I messaged an ex-Muslim to jeer at him named Apostate Aladdin, he got frustrated at me because I was arguing that Muslims have to right to stone for adultery and he exactly told me to please stop frustrated despite the fact that he gets endless messages from Muslims who send him hate mail and he publicizes it. He never posts about a Muslims suffering ever such as in Yemen. The wild part is, he told me in frustration that he recently donated to Yemen for their suffering. Does any of this make sense at all?

This is odd when you think about it, there were none I don't think in the 90s of incompetents that visit churches all day long. Granted there were actual……to be kind uneducated people but remember they were always friendly, and they never wanted to talk theology with you ever knowing barely any of the Bible.

If you are below age 35 and you are a true religious person of an Abrahamic faith, you are part of what I truly believe is the best Ummah after Prophet Muhammad and the Prophets by far. To have to watch all this and be told all these things you cannot do when everyone does all of it but you.

Without housing and welfare, how would these people act on the streets and with video cameras what exactly would it show? Endless people have told me that these people need housing and now I know they truly do. Whoever found a way to make these people religious in America, I think it was by accident, you get a round of applause for doing this on purpose. Important

For some reason if all these people did was just abuse welfare and lie about a mental illness to skip on work this meaning, they were good neighbors to have, I would not be bothered one bit by it but after what I have learned you already know how I feel towards it.

I hadn't a clue at all do not ever hit up religious centers to say hello to them, this will make you seem mentally ill every time a person does this, my advice do not even bother to visit one but your own yet people will still do this and not be viewed as mentally ill at all.

There was an ambulance driver who I was talking to who took me to a waiting unit, I told him about my Islamic faith, and he said to me he wasn't Muslim when I asked, I then said to him "why not?!" yelling it a bit. He made a face of fear, he later told me that when we got out of the ambulance and said to me "we are here big boy." I couldn't be more proud of you man, no this is not in any way sarcasm.

You can claim to Allah mental illness and suicidal, given what happens in today's world. Correct? Think about it the hurt you may have been through is too much, not saying you are suicidal but who is to say you are not? No one could possibly feel shame for something like this, think about it you got the religion correct, so this is what it takes to be religious, correct? Even if there were only a few Muslims in the whole world that were as such, you can claim you are equal to them. Important

After reading all my mental health studies, Prophets have to be visiting the Mentally Ill in dreams or visions to some degree, this might just 100% confirm it given that we all must live on the earth confirmed by the Quran.

There was recently a tragic shooting in Chicago, he was a mentally ill man in his 20s. From a religious standpoint given what I have shown you in the mental health field, it will never hold up for someone to seriously say that he's innocent and he will not be thrown in Hell when the Quran says do not kill. This an exception that we must all accept; it wasn't like he had zero education whatsoever and somehow avoided school his whole life where he cannot even wear clothes like some people in Brazil who are in jungles. Important

Someone converted to a religion, embraced what they wanted out of it and spent all day with the religion, for the sole purpose of keeping them out of jail when we already know that yes, they are doing this solely for themselves to feel big and it obviously did appeal to them to some extent. Does this even sound possible? Important

Just saw "aw it was the mental illness that I have" to end an argument with someone. You will smirk every time.

If Muslims in high percentages don't believe that Muhammad was a hero and that Muhammad was religious for self-gain, the Ummah will fail.

People in America would rather end a conversation all the time than have their beliefs challenged once. They will not enter into a serious argument over something you are passionate about. It may seem that way given the signs they have by their homes, but they never want to argue it or have you be kind to change their beliefs.

If someone were to call you an extremist, you can sarcastically tell them "How do you know you are right? Are you not the extremist to tell me how to think?" These people who try to degrade you when they see you eating pork they say "you can't eat pork." How would I know this? Is this person a Prophet to tell people this?

Narcissism is at 5% in America. It is minimum a third of Americans, max could be as high as 92% given that so little amount of people support Palestine or are neutral on Palestine. Saying Palestine isn't important to you shows you only care about yourself. I can't put an estimate to this but yes this is how I feel about the whole mental illness field. In fact, I read people's Twitters and it is always about them and supporting Ukraine or the lgbt they support, never about the Palestinians ever. To be fair, the 92% is incredibly high when you take into account how many people in America cannot read so they do not qualify when you consider they don't know a world map not to insult them in any way.

Telling the truth about the world ending in front of us will be viewed as mania on someone's part. I already said this I believe but this sentence makes it official. Important

Matt Walsh compared the left to religion by saying the left is a religion. I am pretty sure he is mocking religion here where he goes on and on talking about religion and the left where clearly he is not just trying to sell a book, good luck to him. This I think is worse than Masked Arab what he does but it may all be viewed the same by this point.

This is what I think where I truly believe it, 1/3rd is not mentally ill but that they weren't disciplined at all throughout their lives. So now they are far worse by age 25 where they found a way to be by going to programs for life. Had they have been disciplined properly, the number would be far lower. However, I do agree that there is at least 1/3rd mentally ill in America……I would have zero clue what the true number is in Iran where they ban all drugs and alcohol which could be causing mania in people who do drugs and alcohol all day. As I have already shown most people who claim mentally ill don't have that much of a past. In Iran the numbers are from 8-20 percent. If it is 10 percent than I am amazed, it wouldn't even be an issue at all for society. 20 percent to me is somewhat of a lot.

Brett Cooper on YouTube has over 750k subscribers over the span of 4 months, this must be a genius record of some kind, it is so clear that politics (really gossip is what it is) sells to the public!

People will be more and more sure to pick either North America and Europe or Islam. Because there is only two sides, there are no more other sides to prevent wars from breaking out where the other sides would lead to peace.

I don't mean to single this guy out (however, he has said some horrific things if you look it up though I have nothing against him), Hasan Piker of the young turks is seriously convinced that if you are a conservative, you are the worst of humanity where it is not even close. All that matters is addressing conservative hate mail to him and how conservatism is dangerous and will ruin the earth. In his mind, he is convinced that we would live in a utopia of some sort without conservative ideology, how is this not radicalism? Yes, he has many left allies of different ranges of leftist, but it is still radicalism especially in America where there are only two parties!

Mental health is bigger than Christianity on TikTok. Mental health is at 39.3 billion views and Christianity is at 33.1 billion views with the hashtag (#) which I google searched easily. I have to point this out that what people believe to be Islam is 3 times Christianity at 94.2 billion views, but that is about a different subject. I am trying to show that mental health has a bigger following than the belief of over 2.3 billion followers. Also, remember that 90% of Christians are literate and I am certain that most worldwide have smartphones! Important

If your time is that valuable, it is everyone's fault for your mistakes, correct?

To say God bless you in Arabic is barak Allahu fik.

The best field to study Allah by far after scripture is history, it is not even close. I took a history course at college, and it was so in depth. Your degree in history would cover so many timelines and wars. I went to business for college and graduated with a 4 year. Economics helps a lot and psychology helps more. A second language learned like German obviously will not help. Criminal justice, computer science, those will do so little for you to study crime and how to respond when you already really know about it, you don't need more details in it. I'm terrible with Biology so I would know so little if it helps further religion, but my honest opinion is that it does so little and yes I sound biased right here. Journalism I am sure would help a lot but I've never taken courses in it so I can't say there. Obviously, theater and arts do not help further your faith at all.

Do you know how horrendous you would have to be to draft dodge Vietnam War to then come back to America 5 years later, and then to become a liberal college professor where you complain all day about the president when you make 70k with summers off?

Don’t ever claim an injustice, don’t ever say that’s not fair, catch yourself when you say it. You will win at life.

People get little if anything out of what you say in any field such as politics and religion. It goes so much further than people not listening to the Islamic faith

I wonder if a Prophet ever got angry at what we believers would view as the slightest things because his mind couldn’t rationalize what was happening to him in his life. Going from a normal life everyday to a life unbelievable to most but his close companions.

Do not say on the phone to someone “I wasn’t done talking” when they hang up. You are never right. We have lives to live.

You will never get a reaction from someone that they have never given before in their life by 30. They won’t act so different by that point.

Aren’t we all the children of Israel when we talk about football with each other we are happy? Think of a child all excited for football, football, football, football!

I remember when I was thinking years ago about a dream scenario where everyone goes to Woodstock (not all went to it I know) where only two people don’t go, and they stay at a high school by themselves to study the Bible. Because they did this, they become religious and everyone else leaves the faith. You can take this to the extreme, all day every day of the week not just one day in your whole life, to just study life, books, the news and your brain. Anyone can become wise. You can turn something small like staying behind at a high school one day into something believable. You can have your own dream scenario where you did the right thing for humanity where you ask question after question about every subject possible. Important

For some reason people are so sure of what they believe they forget to ever question what they believe.

Most people in America are trying to have fun in this country at others expense or they only care about themselves and nobody else. That is not how a country should be formed. Do I have to type this?

People have to show their dogs everywhere on the internet as if the dog can do things for me as well. We know well what people think of dogs personally you don’t have to remind me thanks.

Isn’t it off that the people America honors the most by far is the police? When the people who matter by far the most are the military. This does not matter if the country is freemason or not. Technically, cops can be equal to military but in America if you are a cop, you are so far ahead that it breaks the scale.

Knock on all your neighbors’ doors all the way down the street and say hey I am your neighbor I would like to get to know you I appreciate seeing you in this neighborhood. It would be fun.

Presidents like Obama hate their voters who saw something so special in him to make them, Obama was the first black president to them. I can’t figure this one out at all.

People do find me interesting. I keep the conversation going. No one can influence people as I have shown. If I can do it, really anyone can.

I think the Angels must document our speech because very smart people can just play with people that are unfortunately dumb all day long for thrill. Essentially, a group of people ruined something for everyone.

Maybe the way we are created is that we cannot possibly study a field we do not like. Someone I met did not like anything business, I later remembered about myself that I refused to learn anything biology, I truly felt I had no need of biology where my brain rejects biology! Though I see an absolute crucial need to learn business to vote, there are people who see a crucial need to learn biology and I refuse to despite the fact it is a subject of knowledge. It is very possible that Allah is telling teenagers to not learn what they need to learn for math in school for instance, they keep failing and the schools keep expecting it for them to graduate. Remember too that the child will do this, not Allah, Allah will learn anything easily without complaint if ever need be. This is how we are creative. If a generation is not able to learn subjects like biology, a generation could be unable to study Islam as a whole and get nothing out of the Quran and hadiths. I can prove a generation could do this because each generation of people are different in some way. Important

If you put a person who is incompetent not someone who is cynical in Yemen, and they had to watch children die of hunger for a week it would not affect them in any way. So, when they come back to America for instance, they will never look at the child any differently as if they never saw what happened because they don’t feel anything at all, they lack any emotion and cannot achieve the ability to care. Important

America will keep trying new ideas because they want to make it, so you are never offended in any way. Yet it has been proven that this is impossible had they read the Quran.

I think I hate Donald Trump the most of any leader in this world because I once supported him a lot before he was elected since I was conservative, and he denounced the Iraq War. I later on converted to Islam and found out how sick he really is. In my mind I might be upset for the sole reason alone that he used me personally.

Please don't do this- you can protest a job and here's how. The wages are too low, this is a fact, and you make minimum wage for life. So, collect social security your whole life. What you are saying is that until the wages go up, you will never work a job. Don't do this because the Yemeni people could always use even $3 a month as you and I know.

I was so concerned that people would not trust the sources in the books I own. These people they do not trust any source even from a website they go on daily because you are telling them something they don't agree with fully.

The cops came for someone at my group home and the cops and this lady who lives here who has the cops come twice a week. The cops were harassing her for being in a gang and they called each other awful names. She told them to "go to hell" and they responded back "you go to hell."

People keep looking for W's (victories) over their enemies but what they completely overlook is that every W is weighed the exact same no matter the scale, yet these people want the biggest scale and the biggest well-known enemies as if we live in some sort of action movie. No, I did not make this up.

I had done the work to study all about Islam, I had just not done the readings of the Quran or hadiths at all nor knew much about the Prophets. I knew all about wahhabism by 25. This would be the opposite of what a Muslim is taught since they get it as a child to be memorized. I also knew a good amount of the false gospel but not the rest of the Bible. Important

The Muslims throughout history got so smart that everything around them which was so small they thought was enough to prove that the world would end in a Final Day. This may be because they were so political that everything was all or nothing for them so if the world wasn't all near perfect it was all bad. Important

How can you hate your parents not dislike when they brought you onto the earth and let you believe whatever you wanted despite the fact, they never wanted you on welfare your whole life and you did it anyways? All they wanted to do was protect you. If you don't want to call them ever that is perfectly fine but to hate them and forbid them from seeing their grandkids is without words. Yes, their standards were so low, yet you wanted to find fault in them. Important

When Muhammad told Aisha not to tell at someone in public who had insulted the Muslim faith, he didn't d this for what I had thought that being Aisha was a woman so she cannot yell since Abu Bakr told a polytheist leader to "suck al lat's *" that's why Muhammad never told Abu Bakr not to say that. What Muhammad was doing to Aisha was that he was trying to protect Aisha since he and her would spend hours reciting the Quran. If Aisha kept this up, she would get so angry over the slightest things where she couldn't hold it together meaning she wouldn't be in society either someone would seriously harm her, or she would freak out so much she would be angry so much she couldn't function at all. This event happened far before social media and ungodly societies. Think of the damage this stuff will do to them. Add this to the fact the Saud's will distort the religion and flood social media with it! Important

A teen at a center in America said that his father has never had a drip of alcohol his whole life. This teen said it with zeal, but he meant it as to protect himself from alcoholism using his father's leadership. This would be unintentional zeal on the teens part if you heard his speech.

You will never convince one person to support Yemen, only Allah decides that. People will talk their way around it to change the subject always. Important

If everyone had a Carfax in America, then we would know which neighbors to always avoid all the time. Wonder why America doesn't do this yet spies on us with the nsa and has all our data with camera phones people know I have been to psych wards eight times thanks to google maps on my smart phone. They would at least know I was somewhere for weeks if my phone was just left in my apartment.

If you are suffering think of other people's suffering in Yemen for instance, it will remind you of purpose in life.

They claimed at a center that I was harassing women and was mentally ill for talking to women there saying hello to them. I had never once implied of marrying them. No this is not a lie, and no there were no signs up.

Our speech invokes Allah provided it is good speech such as kind words. It goes endlessly beyond just talking about the Quran.

There are people on this earth I estimate 10 percent that need more material like jinn and Angels for instance material like dragons as part of Islam to believe Islam because they wish for more and more for religion so because of this they call Islam false. The irony is overwhelming here, there most likely is much more supernatural waiting for them in Paradise that we have not heard of yet.

Underdeveloped people in masses who don't care about anyone at all want nothing more than your eternal suffering. Freemasonry has grown, and grown, and grown. It is just called "Christianity" or "Buddhism" by the public. It would figure people would check on that where it was a small group of people in it if you catch what I am getting at. Important

Does America fear knowledge? They will fight to make sure the Quran is taught in public schools. Does this make any sense to you? The "freest" nation of all is the most afraid of the Quran? Important

We are all just the children of Israel I can show it, if someone is angry, you can change the subject to something like sports and it usually calms them down. The child wants to talk about what makes him happy not what is stressing him out. The Prophets would not be stressed in any way, but we would.

The only time I will listen to authority is when it is mandated.

People may appear innocent in person but read their twitters they hand out and you will not get that sense at all.

We have a patient at the former group home I was at who told me the staff allows him to stay his whole life. He tells the staff a day a week that he plans to work but never does. I've known him for almost 2 years. I don't think he even knows what a lie is, and he tries to visit a local church daily.

This is what I believe, I take no issue if someone disagrees, but I think most will agree on this- if it were Allah's choice, he would allow the believers infinite wives on this earth, but he cannot because when he wrote life there are laws to it such as allowing 4 maximum at once. That is probably why a man gets so many women in Paradise.

What I am writing is books not journals. I want people to read my studies. This was never intended to be in any way private which exception of some material.

For some reason atheism will never bother me once even if the atheists argue a bit with me and are not total jerks in person. I can never figure this out that between pro-Israel neighbors, polytheist neighbors, atheist neighbors, and dumb neighbors. It will be 100% of the time picked atheist neighbors or polytheist neighbors. I understand that I could be completely wrong on the theology here, but I will never change this.

If the gangsters moved to the middle-class neighborhoods, the neighbors couldn't tolerate it. All the neighbors would band together and try to get rid of them.

If there were video evidence of a Prophet, 70% of followers would follow him to no end if just for the reason alone to better who they are for others they love.

The most humorous thing ever is if for instance you saw a Prophet at a religious center you can claim it blew you away so much that you must check yourself into a psych ward and you call an ambulance for this reason alone to take you to a psych ward. Guess what? Not one psychiatrist will listen or believe you enough to even care.

The deeply confused lady claiming Christianity head staff at the group home said "no!" Raising her voice scared worried about me ready to talk about Islam all angry. For nothing else would she be scared if stalked about but for this scenario I don't understand why.

Pondering things pleases Allah even if it is all day long, provided it does not take from your day-to-day life.

Talking under your breath with exception to someone you know for a while is Haram. Repent for this, do not do it at all.

Because the left answers "maybe" to every religious question. If you tell them, you saw a Prophet in a dream, it becomes a lie to them because there are laws of life, they deny that every Muslim must accept. So, by their response you are viewed as a liar when the left never intended to call you such.

If only some of these comments on Facebook about, for instance being in favor of transgenders in the military went on for hours of blocks of text. Whoever does this think people would seriously support it because they support it, only a few people in the whole country will change their views towards it for this person alone if they were to ever read it.

Daniel Haqiqajou is one of the only people on YouTube with at least 100k subscriber to speak out against Saudi Arabia. I bet good money on this if I had the complete list provided the person is of Abrahamic faith, which would make the list far shorter if there was one. The saud's get no criticism at all baring one YouTube channel. No, TikTok wouldn't have many critics either.

“oh my God!” and “oh Allah” mean the exact same! Same God.

The person in history that can never use the claim of being mentally ill unlike anyone else in history is Muhammad ibn Wahhab.

Don’t ever believe you are in any way superior to someone for not doing something such as working out. Just dispute it and say, “not my thing working out.”

Gyms turn people into narcissists. Look at how some people purposely pose in front of you at a gym. You can find a lot of Jezebel’s at a gym. Unless you have good genetics or you are on steroids, you will see few results. I just saved young men years and years of their time. People keep investing in gyms, yet they ignore what I have provided them with.

If you have so many bad memories, you will hit the breaking point and during end times, nothing will get you out of the breaking point you are in. Important

The FBI already has records on everyone in America thanks to the NSA. So, when the police keep reporting the same person, the FBI does nothing about it. The FBI proves it is only the people they want to target, where the police must report a crime of some sort or a social media post. The NSA has more than one file on us, they have every search you have ever made. Important

The only cure to narcissism is by a person’s own choice.

I had not a clue that doing charity such as going to food banks, people spend their time to solely prop up their image to believe they are superior to others. This is manual work mind you for people like that.

TV shows in the future will be truly horrific with the dark comedy and insults they put in; South Park will seem like nothing.

Both the guys buying, and the young college prostitutes are narcissists, I haven’t a clue how, but this is America.

In today’s world, do not claim to see a Prophet in a dream or in real life. You will be viewed as an insane person, only in Muslim countries is this allowed.

Do you as a Muslim notice that when you try to debate Christians on the internet, they shut down the conversation quickly, the Christians only want to talk to the dumb in society to make it seem like the dumb cannot possibly refute Christianity.

Who would have thought knowledge could ever be detrimental in a first world country? Important

People don’t seem to see how needed the zakat is in society, yet it won’t save the day but for some of those who pay it, it sure will.

If you can make a visual out of this, people feel special. They will find ways to become more and more special to where they feel you must serve them in new ways. This is where if you accidentally bump into a girl, they lose their minds like the world has ended because of you alone. How to prevent a tragedy like such, we haven’t a clue and the world will certainly end if just for this reason alone. Important

In their hearts is a sickness and it grows. Look at how many YouTube prankers commit the strangest crimes and not for views mind you. Important

Do you notice how the signs people hold up at protests become more and more vulgar each year? Important

If we keep treating people like children with safe spaces at colleges, the people in them will become stranger and stranger each year because influencers on Twitter expand their propaganda. Important

In today’s world, cops may have to be told they are heroes by the country. Also, look at how their wages keep going up, how everyone wants to be a cop. Important

Have the mentally ill have their own churches rather than have everyone share centers. This will never happen.

You can buy a firearm at 18. Mania sets in during someone’s mid 20’s. Most people do not get records of serious crimes until after age 25. Can you see what is going on here considering the NSA has all this proof against these mass murderers? Important

If the world was ending for any reason, you will be viewed as manic for warning people of this.

If their parents are narcissists, educated, ad know how to call people they don’t like horrific names, just imagine how awful their kids will grow up to be given the fact that their kids are not only educated but that by 16 they know how to truly anger someone.

The reason why Christianity is declining in the Middle East has so little to do with persecution. The reason for this is mostly because of birth rates where Muslims have 3 children and Christians have 1 child per family. but because I am Muslim, I sound biased about this, I realize.

Since there was no archeology done in the Middle East until the 1970’s, this meant during Hitler’s time, the public was not sure of their religious beliefs.

Hitler wouldn’t have known if Christianity, Islam, or talmudism, is correct but Hitler and his crew were polytheist occultists. Hitler was installed by Britain to counter Britain’s threat of the Soviets with their communist ideology. Britain knew what Hitler believed, Britain saw how Hitler and the Germans were going to overtake their empire through protests around the world, Britian worked with Poland to enter a war with Poland to end Hitler’s reign. The Soviets later joined Britain to end Hitler’s reign feeling threatened by Hitler that Hitler would overtake their communist regime. Hitler and his crew knew Stalin and FDR wanted to end the earth and wanted him to join them by picking a side……. but Hitler loved what he did so much he was going to expose them thinking his ideology would win at, Hitler would go to a high cost to get the job he had set for the Germans and those who supported him done. Hitler was part of the Thule Society along with his crew. Hitler hid his beliefs it from the public. I don’t know if Hitler was a zionist. I don’t think he believed in the “third” temple. We know now that Hitler funded moving the Khazar zionists to Palestine, but only the Khazars in Germany, not the Khazars worldwide. He wanted Germans to leave Christianity feeling it had failed them. He had no care what someone’s religious beliefs were and never intended to convert anyone nor teach his religious beliefs in schools. Hitler favored no religion; Hitler saw no need of religion. In fact, Hitler didn’t care about any religious practice unless if a religion had a practice incorrect where he would want it not in the place of Germany’s law. We also know that the German leaders tried “Positive Christianity” which the occultist leaders invented to take out Christianity from the public in favor of race pride over religion. Hitler wanted religious centers to submit to his race competition beliefs by having them do the Sieg Heil at their religious centers when he visited. Hitler did have a very good understanding of God’s laws. Hitler in no way wanted revenge on any religious group, Hitler was not a man who would violate human rights. Hitler excelled in animal rights, taking care of the environment, and running the economics of Germany. Hitler had no intentions in his life to submit to our Lord. We know so much about how he wanted races to compete in building the earth, which seemed to be all he wanted. However, don’t know much beyond what little we have of his religious beliefs, it’s all lost. Important

Because of the fact if I were to go to jail for preaching, all these groups of every faith and many leftists would support me for free speech, the FBI cannot put me in jail. However, they can and would put me in a psych ward and then I will be viewed as crazy and then I get out in three days. So really the one who loses is me for preaching. Not only did I fail to make a statement, but I am treated as crazy because of it. In fact, an FBI agent threated to me pin by himself to a stretcher to hospital angry at me, he was a buddhist (he wasn't in on it take my word) and we were arguing about the Yemen War where I kind of raised my voice at him.

I think I got it right I am 90% sure that back in 1960 Satan had little control over the earth even though he ran most of the world's governments. Today, he has a near monopoly that in most countries he runs almost all the citizens in it. Back 200 years ago, Satan had so little control over his people he uses such as the catholics, talmudists, and the freemasons. Realistically, these groups had no voice, and their followers were not going to emulate what is terrible behavior and their followers knew right from wrong.

Isn't it convenient how Muhammad had zero fame by then end? He was well known in Arabia but when he wrote letters to leaders in the Middle East, they barely knew who he was! Do you notice how the letters have only one sentence about if the leaders turn from religion what would happen, none of the letter has anything to do with Muhammad, just the Quran with verses in them? What else does Muhammad do? He wishes the leaders peace!

How to fix a problem at a Mosque or Church, have an hour for conservative voters as a service, have another hour for liberal voters as a service. We can all get along somehow.

They bring in Muslims into North America and Europe if the Muslim is to ever hit his wife for any reason, he will lose custody of his child. This is an example of where tolerance fails in North America and Europe. They would take someone's child away for his religious beliefs.

This is what I have observed with my three years of leftists, not mentally ill leftists but leftists I am talking about. Some leftists truly get it, other leftists truly do not get it when they will tell you things you cannot say in public, some will tell you don't say that and they are correct, others will not I don't know the ratio, but I would think only 25% of them get it that yes, it is out of control. I haven't a clue if conservatives also have two extremes is what is happening here. Important

I want to be an employment specialist since people give out their information on their social media. I would have to disguise it though on what to look for. If they found out that for instance at a liberal corporation, I was only hiring liberals for them vice versa for conservative, I think I would be reported in some way despite my efforts to try to help better a company mind you. I am sure the Middle East does this a lot with religion in Lebanon.

Imagine if a crew who was paid so much money to look for if the Israelites were in Egypt spent years and years potentially making series out of looking like Curse of Oak Island the exact same concept. A show that gets good approval from the public. I shouldn't be handing out ideas or at least I should copyright this. I find this funny.

If Muslims unlike any religious group were so miserable, you would know Islam was a fact. Perhaps that is the reason why so many "Muslims" in the Middle East have so much wealth, to hide the reality that is going on in the world. Important

Arab Muslim women were amazing in bed during Muhammad's time the word spread quick and fast about who they were. Since the Israelites were very political, sex was a good deed, the Arab Muslim women wanted many babies, and we have insight on Muhammad's sex life; then yes, your answer is right there. The Arab Muslim women could wink at you and try to get your attention at all costs. There is no evidence outside of a few minor hadiths of gender segregation, not that it would matter, the Arab Muslim women would wink at you and give you looks being that you are a man they would want at the Mosque you would see for an hour weekly. The Muslim women's faces would show their interest in you. Important

If you were to try to stop someone's political and religious beliefs because you say "I'm offended" at it, you are so narcissistic there aren't even words that you want me to not release anything I post because you don't agree with it entirely. This is what the left is becoming, remember, you went to me for my book. How someone like this has speech of any sort, I haven't a clue how it isn't limited to "hello, goodbye" and that is it. The people that are traumatized by this book is not you! What you are telling American politicians is that they can fight all these wars and those who speak out are "offending you" in some way. The people who are traumatized are the ones who must be heard at all costs for the wars they face to end! Do you seriously believe you are to be the ones trusted to document everything the world does and no one else?!

If I am having a terrible day, I become "negative James!"

If I were to describe the internet when it comes to messaging someone from anywhere in the world……. I would call it broken beyond repair. We all know why. I know I already explained this before, you don't know who you are messaging and what their motive is at all. Only after days' worth of conversations would you catch on to who you are messaging. Because chats on forums for instance, there is no point to get mad at what someone typed to you.

Your political cause is not charity no matter what it is. Charity is giving back to the public by way of helping others. Others are more than aware of your political cause being that it is on the news. You are not donating your time; you spend all day doing it but no time at all with those who need assistance with food for instance.

Shut down all methadone clinics.

I don't know when Christians as a whole changed, but I clearly recall where endless Christian websites back in 2004 I think we're trying endlessly to shut so many bad things down such as ban alcohol, end pornography, teach the Bible in schools, there is more, and I wasn't really around for this. What year did Christianity in America become the opposite of all this?

To put this in perspective, nobody would believe that when Muhammad was a child where he was so innocent and loved by all, do you think there were adults who would have drug bust attempts (the 7th century Arabian equivalent) and then waive at the person doing it the next day without even apologizing or caring for the mistake they had made? This is now how you raise children in a society, your (leftist) example does not work. A life was almost ruined for good by incompetence and neither parties care at all nor fixed the problem. What was happening in Arabia before Muhammad was a Prophet wasn't working at all maybe worse, I would need to read deep into it, but it wasn't unusual and unheard of for all of history. This is just comical. It also makes you wonder, were people the same kind of dumb to have sex with a woman and get her pregnant and have 7 other guys have sex with her and whoever is the father is to be the father where this has to be fixed? Would these two types of arrogance have gotten along with each other? My understanding is that the guys having sex with this woman were sick minded and at least knew what they were doing was wrong to some degree, but they didn't care, if that were the case at least they recognized it so they would be smarter than today's leftists where the leftists cannot understand a traumatic event they caused on someone nor understand what a trauma is. Important

I told a psychiatrist that the Old Testament took place in Arabia. He and I argued for over 4 months telling me I was crazy daily; he still made a face all concerned and he wanted me to change the subject for him every time. It is funny to me.

"Who is your favorite president James?" My response would be "Abu Bakr."

The best method for us Muslims to return the favor to America is to give Americans so much wealth and keep multiplying it given what wealth does to their citizens. Unfortunately, we cannot do this, we do not have stored away wealth to just give Americans or else we would. What we could do, we could push more education of any kind in America given what pro Americans do with education. Important

Read this, when people tease in society or wish them harm in some way, we the public do not know when someone is just trying to assist us in some way. This happens when something is brought up that is serious, or heck even minor to get the person to understand what not to do around someone. This is how corporation work environments will collapse where we don't trust someone's intent.

For no modern day hindus, buddhists, mormons, 75% of christians, some talmudists, (I don't know about sikhs), folk religions, you are not to always suppress your anger as if anger doesn't exist in someone since you believe your religion prevents all anger possible, you are all wrong on this. You cannot control your anger in every instance possible, this is something impossible. There will be instances where you have to yell at someone, this is normal behavior. You could not be more wrong here. No, that is not a sign of peace! What you are doing is preventing emotion. Also, all your religions are always antiwar, in Islam, we have to protect countries of ours at all costs!

I am in denial that there are seriously people that no matter what you show them about Islam and Palestine, they will not listen thinking that the Palestinians are in some way victims of the country they love and are willing to protect at all costs a country they have almost all but lost. In these people's minds, they are convinced that the Palestinians suffer as a result of their misunderstanding of life that they are the true victims of what is called incompetence but to not to these people, no they are victims who don't know better but someday will when they quit on Islam something they love. Important

Do you notice how protests just go up higher every single year? It's every group you can imagine in America. We live in an era where you can get your voice out by simply opening a Twitter account which these protesters already have meaning their voice is already out. I wonder if most of the protestors forget the reason why they are going. Not to claim they are dumb, but that they are lost like at a theme park where you don't have directions and you want to go back to your car but there is no map for you to look at.

Because we live in a world where those who are hurt by what they see are grouped in with people who want attention, so they claim suffering of their own where they are not suffering in any way, this means the world's suffering is overlooked every time. This means people who truly need their voices heard and will do so at all costs, only a small portion of the world will hear of their suffering that they are in no way thriving off. Every single time you mention the Yemen war, no one cares probably because they think you want to talk about yourself and somehow you act concerned when you are in no way concerned where you will instantly switch subjects for sports for instance because that has more to do about yourself and the other person relates to it more, so you get more attention from the other person. The term for this is called crocodile tears where you put on a show for attention alone having no care at all for the people of Yemen, someone can do this at any age after puberty. Important

You think God blesses America because you have lived in America your whole life, do you know how senseless you would have to be? Especially when you speak against elites that are so rich when you are paycheck to paycheck. A person like such goes far further than believing they are the most important thing the world has ever seen. Since you are like this, America must also be you, yet you speak against it. This is dumb beyond limits, remember that you can never be criticized so you are criticizing yourself because elites run America and you disapprove of this. Important

I got to wonder how people who read all day can be somehow convinced little is going wrong in America because they are so in love with their country as it reflects who they are. It isn't that they purposely overlook what is happening, it is that their brains cannot understand what is happening in America unless they view it as being positive.

Somebody has to own 4000 books, most of which are WWI and WWII, almost all books are repeats of the same material. People already write fantastic well researched books; this is not 1930 where someone is investigating books and needs every last one to get details about for instance the WWII to write their own. To put this in perspective, I have a book from a guy who has over 3200 book citations, however the books he got were difficult to find since barely anyone will write a historical book on slavery that doesn't paint the south to be such monsters. He would only need 100 citations at most if he wrote a book about the perspective held today known to be how horrible the south was with slavery something so easy to. You are not an investigative journalist like Lochlainn Seabrook is. Also, your book is not controversial if you write it, welcome to the real world. This is excess to a new level.

As you know, I try to respect Jews to the best of my ability. However, Jews do not believe Muhammad is a Prophet and Jews read the two Talmud's all day long. The Talmud's no one can understand to much of an extent no matter how much time they spend or how smart they are. I personally can only understand a small amount in the two Talmud's, I have to have professionals do the work for me meaning I don't get my own opinion on the two Talmud's. Jews do pray three times a day. However, muslims pray five times a day. Most Important2ly, the Quran and the hadith's anyone of any intellect no matter how much time they spend can understand. The Quran and hadiths are so easy to understand, I think a high school dropout who quit in the 10th grade can easily understand. Therefore, I think I can convince a Jew that yes being Muslim is the correct choice for them. This is what Jews think God wants, this is what I think as a Muslim what Allah intended for. Important

The government wants to cover for the fact that crime is going up so what they did was close down prisons and lower the amount of people in them and instead put them in psych wards for 2 weeks. If all these people that are crazy are in jails, prisons will get so aggressive, so they put these crazy people in psych wards where the fights are always broken up. The government thought ahead and thought well with this to make America seem far less crazy and aggressive yet all they have done is show it is crazier in today's world with all these people going to psych wards who make no sense at all. When these patients come out, all their friends take them back and say "oh you know you had some issues back then and you have improved so much now" but that's not the case at all. The wise in society can see the issue at large here. Important

Racism isn't a problem in society. What people do is they use racism to try to bring you down meaning they accept racism as a tactic. They will try to bring anyone of any race down. If they were racist, they would only target black people, correct? It's not like people in today's earth have a preference of bringing down black people. If racism does exist in today's world, there are so few racists in society maybe 100,000 of all Americans.

Something entertaining to do would be to go to someone in the public and ask if they are mentally ill. If they tell you no, laugh at them and say "haha! You're a loser you're not mentally ill!"

I clearly remember on Halo 3 back in 2009, there was "intolerance", there wasn't racism. I will give you an example, so we beat a team of people and they lived in Britain. I know I made fun of their accents and said they were failures for living in Britain and they jeered back at us, but that was after they lost the game. I didn't go on Omegle to look for them to call them racist names, back then we wouldn't use the n word. We played the game, first to be competitive. We didn't go seeking people to insult them in the worst ways possible. Our goal wasn't to bring them down, just to say "* you, bye". Nothing like Omegle existed back then. There were instances where people sent death threats through Xbox live voice mail, but that was rare. Also, there was no video to show your face which could go right to the internet, all someone had was your Xbox live name not your real name and location.

What would be the need of a spy in America where there are endless websites, plenty of historical books that trash America? Also, everything is documented, recorded, we citizens know where the NSA's building is and how they spy on all citizens. We know exactly where every military base is in America, and we know everyone's profession through social media. What would you need to spy on for America? A future war? We know where America is waiting to invade like Syria. If you are a spy I would bet in any country, you will be caught eventually, in fact probably early on. Plus, every employer has cameras at every government building, they would catch a spy in a heartbeat at one. You can't even hide your religious beliefs in America anymore, only the NSA can hide it for you. Important

Mac Miller must have thought he was some sort of hero. I do the opposite of what he did in his life, and we have nothing in common. Which one of us is the hero? Is it both like America will tell you? Also, which one is viewed as a hero by the public?

If you can only accept compliments very rarely where you say "well I'm not good at this" when you clearly are, this shows you are ungrateful for life. That or you are pompous where you feel superior to everyone else, but that is rarely the case that we know. This is clear proof, do not argue this.

They do not teach in the high schools to not walk towards the cops ever and to always keep your distance. They do not teach to never take leadership with the cops, nor debate because this will concern the cops seriously given how all cops are concerned for America and their safety. Wouldn't this be so needed in today's world given all these cameras recording cops where cops do the wrong thing and make the news?!

Here's how a law of life works, so let's say 9999/10000 women say to you "do not touch my purse ever", it is still a law of life. Because that one woman doesn't mind, it happens that you did not violate that law, the law is lifted in this one case, however, the law will always be there. The law just didn't exist in the one instance, it doesn't mean you got away with breaking a law in fact you got away with nothing because the woman you did that too was in no way upset about it, breaking the law gets people upset in this case women, the law in that case was just like air to compare it to, the law was still in the air, in fact you knew about the law existing. Important

If we keep doing this back and forth with the Iranian government and the American government where neither side will quit doing what they do thinking they will win coming with new ways to try to bring the other country down, what will happen is that the people at the bottom they will get massacred! This will be at public events, at religious centers, rallies… yes. And, both governments officials will not be harmed in any way, they live in gated communities, no chance of someone ever attacking them especially with all the bodyguards they have. Both sides want their revenge or power/control so badly they will recruit anyone. Why is the public not listening? Important

Religion is about nobody else but you! You are competing to get the top layer of heaven, if you cannot possibly stand someone you meet, always walk away don't spar with them knowing you are right about Palestine, and they will not listen to it. Your only goal is the top layer of heaven, and the person you are arguing with is wrong. You and I know, they will never listen, if being right gets you angry, there's no point for you to even argue.

Muhammad was not religious for the purpose of getting W's over his own followers knowing he is of a higher status on this earth than his followers and this can be proven. In a Mosque, I was told there are 6 major Prophets who did the most work for Allah and Muhammad is one of them. As we Muslims know, there is no criticism of Muhammad throughout his life that is something he did wrong such as adultery. If Muhammad was the Prophet who did the most work and was far superior to all the other Prophets, you could make that claim and we followers would never know if this were true or not. If Muhammad was the #1 Prophet, what would Isa be then considering Isa did not die, was born a virgin, and did not sin once in his life? Thankfully, with this truth we now know that is a 100% false claim made by nonbelievers. This means, Muhammad is a man of morals. Important

Even if you could impress someone somehow and they looked up to you in many ways viewing you as some sort of leader with much fame, they still would not convert to Islam when you try inviting them with all the evidence. This is proof you cannot convert anyone of the entire earth. I think they do not listen is because they cannot understand the weight of the words you are saying because they weigh everything they are taught equally so why convert to Islam even if you could prove Islam were right? What I also noticed is they don't take anything serious in life. Important

You could never preach Christianity in a country as Muslim because when people see what you are preaching such as pro Palestine, people will think you want to control them as a Muslim knowing you will not leave Islam ever knowing you are right about the religion. They will never believe you want peace; they believe you want to tell them what to do as if you are a "boss" of some kind, not an oppressor, but just a "boss" telling other faiths what to do. I can only imagine how often this happens in Lebanon with politicians being elected where a citizen doesn’t trust a Muslim or a Christian if the citizen themselves is Muslim or Christian.

Do you know how stupid you would have to be that as an example you are the biggest Joe Stalin supporter, it's not that you overlook the genocide he caused on his own people that you view people who didn’t believe exactly what he wanted as needing to be genocide. They seem not to believe it as if it didn’t happen, even the photos showing it, it didn’t happen, even a photo meant you could never be sure of a genocide happening. Then you get mad because you say “don’t show photos like that it may offend someone who lost a loved one in a genocide” This also applies to a unitarian member that says “god supports gay marriage” and claim to be Christian saying the bible is always right.

Can I ask, how is it wishing peace on someone when all you do is wish hellfire on someone? How can you say, “I am a loving Christian”, knowing you are offending people who have lives and jobs to do? Well, it can’t be a “hating, Christian”, these people have told me all day long they are in some way superior to be because they are Christian. Could you be more special if you tried? Important

You just know there are people in America that say at all costs they must get out of the ghetto they are in, where they finally accepted that they cannot take what goes on anymore in it such as Worcester being an example having tried everything possible to make it work. Act the ghetto is overwhelmingly democrat, and where they are as well. We all have to admit fault sometimes pro Americans.

If someone are a polytheist or they worship idols for instance, they cannot do anything you want, at the very least they believe in a higher power of some sort with laws. The polytheist for instance will acknowledge a god exists, so they would know that yes it will bother you seeing it. Even if they deny Allah, at least the polytheist can accept why you are so angry instead of blaming you knowing when they get upset, their false god(s) also get upset, which they can never deny you this right. That would make someone a liar to get upset at anything possible that happens to them because they would also believe their false god(s) get angry. Important

If you are truly smart, the only criticism you need is from Muslims, no one else matters you can tell them “Don’t criticize me ever sir”. Consider that there are both liberal Muslims and conservative Muslims, that would cover both parties. This doesn’t make you a Prophet, you just don’t value anyone’s opinion that doesn’t agree with you. Important

Do people seriously argue if a woman can be “beautiful” considering that some guys may think a woman is “ok” and not “gorgeous.” Because a few guys felt that way, a woman cannot be considered gorgeous since nothing is defined in these people’s minds? I guess in that in case, when I type in “gorgeous women” there should be women that look “ok” to me since all women are the same. When I type in “gorgeous” women, all of them look “gorgeous” to me, not one “ok” to me. Jezebel in the Bible was a beautiful woman, it’s defined there. I agree that beauty is in the eye of the beholder, but all guys will agree on one girl. That phrase has to do with preference such as wanting a blonde hair blue eyed women or an Asian woman, nothing wrong with preference. In the Quran, the Houri are described as having wide and beautiful eyes, no guy will argue that these eyes are not beautiful. Someone will seriously argue “well that is Paradise that is possible in Paradise but not on this earth.”

Is there any woman in the whole world that wants to be called a “stupid woman” by a man? This is a law of life.

If we are rewarded for our good speech, this means Allah is clearly pleased by our speech. This does not mean you should just shut off speech as much as possible. Even the slightest kind of words go a long way in a dialogue that may become negative. At least, you had tried to be positive, instead of not talking at all. We aren’t perfect nor will our speech ever be near perfect, so we may as well talk with coworkers about something other than sports and try the best we can and if we must then we are to end the dialogue. We have to trust that Allah is giving us the approval where we Muslims know that yes dialogue can fail fast particularly on the internet.

If you truly believe there should not be a single center that claims to be a Mosque in America where not only many citizens who hate Islam, you join in on this and tell them there are to be no centers claiming to be a Mosque since you do not want Islam in America at all where you hate America that much. We Muslims cannot decide this! Important